The methods used to communicate in this book come from visions and channeling. In this book, the authors sometimes write about beings with a specific moment of conversation in time, like a snapshot of reality. It is OUR vision and THEIR words.

The channeled works are, in essence, our interpretation of the early people who walked the earth and lived by a code. We in NO WAY speak for any of the current tribal people and the information herein is NOT connected in any way with tribal teachings, but rather express our understanding of the past influences of spiritual beings on the history of humanity.

Section 1

In the first section of this book, you will find direct written information from The Ancients, presented in their own words. Some of these writings come from the book Catch Falling Stars, and we believe these writings are timely to read again especially with the current state of our world. Michael channeled the majority of these words through the beings we refer to as The Family which also includes The Ancients.

Some argue that channeling is wrong because the information received may come from deceptive sources and we agree on this stand as well.

However, we also see the same criticisms could be applied to religion or to those who claim to speak to non-terrestrials.

Individuals who identify as Christian, sometimes claim to channel angels, but society seems to accept this as no big deal, therefore if it's acceptable for some people to channel angels inside the Christian faith, what's the difference if our family also speak to angels like Samuel and Gatheon? Why is it acceptable for one group, but not the other?

Channels existed long before the Bible came along, therefore, if you really think about it, the prophets also had to receive their information through channeling, telepathy or verbal communication too. Historical figures such as the Oracles of Delphi were sought after by military leaders and kings before battle because of their visions; therefore, consulting an oracle first, was the usual way of doing things and was widely accepted throughout many different cultures.

How do we communicate with 'The Family'?

To help those who understand energy and how different types of beings can use these methods to communicate, we have added a chapter toward the end of this book called ALL THAT ENERGY, this information may help you understand how it works in this family. We cannot vouch for everyone else who receives messages, but for us personally, we have always communicated through different types of energy, such as neutrino energy waves and photon light energy.

We have consistently taught anyone willing to listen, the importance of walking the Middle Path and why we believe this is the ideal framework to discuss The Divine Father, who is always central to our teachings. The Divine Father is not often discussed in this realm, even though the Nag Hammadi Scriptures elaborate on him more than other spiritual texts might.

*It's important to note the being we refer to as The Divine Father of the Multiverse, is not the same as the figure many beings will associate with the God of the Bible. The Divine Father we know is more powerful, modest, loving, and kind. He knows ALL but prefers to be looked upon as a Father or Grandfather figure in a family. Father is known by many different names across the multiverse and he wants you to know these things about him because what you were taught about The Divine Father isn't exactly correct, well, that's what he taught me to understand.

The first section also contains The Ancient's words, which can be powerful enough to have an effect the psyche. Some of the other writings from The Ancients are very honest and straightforward and do not hold back when it comes to addressing religion, politics, and other subjects. Many of the Ancients view the books and literature upon this realm, as inverted teachings, and not really the entire truth and why they are so straightforward.

Please know that if any of our words cause offense, or misunderstanding, this information has not been written with that intention. We encourage enlightened beings to perceive this interaction as a call to action, similar to someone blasting a horn to awaken the sleeping troops in a bunker. We know there will be some who will not agree with anything written in this book, and if that's the case, we thank you for your visit.

Our teachings center around The Divine Father because to us he is the primary source of light energy in this multiverse, which our family has made known to others for many years.

Our Divine Father also mentioned, he was looking for diamonds in the rough to polish, so it also makes sense to us, that not everyone will automatically understand some of this information.

- The spiritual description of the three different types of beings upon this realm, according to the Nag Hammadi Scriptures, are as follows: Pneumatics (spiritual), Psychics (soulish), and Hylics (material). Each one of these archetypes mentioned, also concerns the soul's ability to learn.
- Helena Blavatsky (August 12, 1831 - May 8, 1891) also spoke about a difference in the human spiritual-dimensional understanding of certain beings upon this realm. Blavatsky believed some of these beings were connected to an 8th Sphere and some were not human – the soulless ones, mentioned in her book Isis Unveiled – in 1877.
- Anunnaki King Aya also speaks about beings upon this realm, who are not all human and we have supplied a link to a downloadable PDF of a transcript from two MP3 recordings we did back in 2017. Read what Aya has to say about the humans upon this realm.

If You Can Imagine It
Other Dimensions Will Open Up For You

The understanding and connection each being wishes to achieve from within, is entirely up to them and what they will allow themselves to believe. YOU can overcome just about anything in your life, especially if you want to learn something new about who you are and your connection to all that is.

Some of the information in this book may begin to target your DNA and memories, or give you an awakening thought that shakes loose something in your awareness. Our Divine Father works in mysterious ways because he's totally amazing, and belief is one of those words which requires a heart condition and a change of thought.

How bad do you really want to this information because some of this may sting a bit, especially when you begin reading the words from The Ancients. Please understand sometimes, the opposite of politeness is necessary especially in these uncertain times. Some beings also need to be jolted out of their apathy; therefore, strong words can provoke an emotional reaction within each person. These emotions are designed to awaken those in need of spiritual-self guidance to navigate through Earth's controlled maze.

Are you ready to learn more? Then let's read on...

Wesdoo (ancient word for blessing)

Michael, Victoria and the Family AKA The Ancients

Who Are The Ancients?

The best way for our family to explain who The Ancients are, is to go back to the beginning of our interaction with them. The Ancients are a vast group of dimensional beings who have been communicating with our family for over 20 years.

Many of them come from different centuries, while others originate from other spaces from various dimensions and some even come from stars. The majority of our family is no longer human but rather spirit and energy. We interact with many of these beings in the same way that you would communicate with your family, except that our connections are more energy-based than flesh and blood.

If you have previously listened to some of our video recordings on YouTube, <https://www.youtube.com/@WhenTheAncientsSpeak> you might have heard of beings like The Windfathers or Norns speak occasionally. The Norns are three powerful ancient females who can alter the destinies of gods, humans, and other living beings. They are known as Fatebenders https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Norns#:~:text=The%20Norns%20\(Old%20Norse%3A%20norn,Fates%2C%20elsewhere%20in%20European%20mythology.

Some of you may also have heard from more outgoing beings like Stephen, Matilda, Vlad, and Charles, who always have fun with each other. Don't get us wrong because these beings can also have serious information when they need speak to humanity as well. This book is intended to be a compilation of ancient writings, along with other information concerning our Divine Father and your connection to all that is.

Many people assume that we cannot communicate with ancient beings like The Norns when the truth is, we can, and do. What we were taught about mythology does contains elements of reality, which is why you are drawn to amazing stories like "The Lord of the Rings" or "The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe." Deeper down, your higher self understands that myth encompasses truth as well. Opening your mind to a new understanding will be important for your spiritual and personal growth throughout this book, so whether you believe this information is entirely up to you.

The Norns are part of Victoria's life, and these beings consider her sister. You can hear the Norns speaking in "The Great Harvest Has Arrived: The Windfathers and Norns Speak 3 in Spirit." <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=LwFK-ul5KJg>. In this discussion, the Norns talk about the reset and the harvest, and they explain how to successfully harness the spiritual power of the three in spirit, which is referred to as Sharteesti Spreeah.

We also communicate with beings known as The Star People. One of our closest contacts is Aya, Anunnaki King. His name is found in the Grand Assembly Chart of Anunnaki. Contrary to common beliefs about this species, not all are negative. Aya is far from that description, as his title is "The Shining One" and "The Prince of Justice." His original name is Arneesh, but it has been translated into Shem-esh in the chart; we simply refer to him as Aya, to learn more: <https://ancients.s3.us-east-1.amazonaws.com/2017-2025-Aya-Children-Ainur.pdf>

Our Zeta Grey friend, Chattel, sometimes stops by for a chat, and there have been other beings who have educated us, such as Artemus, The General, and some rather unpleasant Reptilian entities.

Interestingly, it was the Reptilians who were honest about their plans in this realm. Some of their information may unsettle people, as these recordings were made more than five years ago and when the population was largely unaware of such matters. Now, the time has come when millions can see the reality of what these beings are discussing.

Ezekiel 1:10-11

10: The form of their faces was that of a man, and each of the four had the face of a lion on the right side, the face of an ox on the left side, and also the face of an eagle. 11: Such were their faces. Their wings were spread upward; each had two wings touching the wings of the creature on either side, and two wings covering its body.

Hybrids Exist Even in the Angelic Realm

We also communicate with other dimensional beings who do not take a humanoid form, such as the Oceanics, also known as The Aquatics, and occasionally the Mantids. We have had conversations with some unpleasant entities that sometimes begin with insults or threats.

All of these beings have contributed to our education as a family, and many have imparted knowledge to humanity. Regardless of whether their teaching focused on self-interest or the well-being of others, we learned something valuable from each interaction.

We kindly ask everyone who reads this book to keep an open mind and consider whether the information we share can help you understand and learn. Does this resonate with your higher self? Does this information make sense to you?

We encourage you to reflect on whether we are truthful by using your gut instincts or higher self to guide you through this book, that is all we ask you to consider. We sincerely thank you for your continued love and support if you were already familiar with our unique and diverse family.

Again, please look at the section named ALL THAT ENERGY, which explains neutrino energy, photon light energy, and crystalline energy. Most of us understand what energy is, particularly if we stick a fork to an active light socket. We see that some kind of energy runs through our bodies and harms us; our family does not use harmful energy to communicate.

Most of the time, when our family communicates with other beings, Aya communicates through neutrino energy waves, but other family members prefer to use photon-light energy for communication.

What Kind of Symbol is this?

The above symbol was first shown to Mike and Victoria over 20 years ago. When the couple began communicating verbally with these beings, they initially faced communication and language challenges. Although Victoria had been able to communicate with beings since she was three years old, she did not interact with them verbally until Michael began to channel.

Many of these beings have whispered into the ears of humanity for a very long time. This symbol helped our family to connect better with our extended family of beings. We used it to focus on energy and to create better communication pathways. This is the united symbol of those beings that our family refers to as The Ancients, The Windfathers, The Neutrals, and others.

The purple light in the background of this symbol represents the spiritual awakening that many people currently experience. When I first saw it, the purple sun was blazed with a bright white center. These scythes represent the harvesting of humanity. The two scythes slowly turn and harvest humanity joined together by a thin line. What do scythes mean?

In the Bible, there is a reference to harvesting chaff from wheat. Matthew 3:12 NIV states: "His winnowing fork is in his hand, and he will clear his threshing floor, gathering his wheat into the barn and burning up the chaff with unquenchable fire."

Historically, scythes have been used to harvest grass, hay, and wheat, which adds significant meaning to this symbol, especially if you have been observing the world recently. The spiritual ley lines come together, and for many, the next step in spiritual development will involve maintaining an open mind and exercising discernment.

The words of The Ancients connect to everything happening today, touching on subjects such as Mother Gaia, disillusionment with religion, political propaganda, and how the harvest cycle works. Our family wanted to compile this book to share our knowledge, understanding, and connection to all that exist in the universe. Humanity stands on the precipice of a new era and understanding; therefore, we encourage people to approach this book with an open mind, as the writings within these pages have the potential to change your life forever, if you allow them to have a positive effect.

We Are Always Watching You

Even though you can't see us with your 3D eyes, doesn't mean we aren't there. Energy never dies; it just transforms into something else like Photon Light Energy.

"We have watched you for thousands of years. We have rejoiced at your accomplishments and languished over your monumental failures. You have been too headstrong, vastly ignorant to the whole universe and its laws.

You have been wicked. You cheat. You lie. You hate. Some of you have perfected deceit in many guises due to your lack of true depth of any real wisdom.

You have also done unspeakable acts in the name of so-called religion. This horrifies us because the intention of your faith is not to heal or restore but to bully, consume, usurp and destroy.

You have refused to listen many times to true words of light when we whispered to you. You have been the cause of much suffering among your kind, as you took offense to the smallest detail and waged countless war on other innocent beings over trivial matters.

Still, it may not be too late for even you. Turn away from all of this darkness and embrace change. Learn to love. Become one with all beings and the universe. Learn of your higher self and its desires. There is a right way to gain all you desire in such that you bless and heal others in your wake.

When The Ancients Speak

Now once and for all, undue the evil you have wrought. Learn kindness. Deal in compassion. End the suffering and uplift the poor in spirit, and bless all people – for in this act of selflessness you will finally end suffering of others and find yourself whole and clean.

How beautiful you can become. Like a star.

How wonderful you truly are and how much you can do while also fulfilling your deepest desires! Learn from our writings, as this is the beginning of your awakening.

We love you deeper than you can imagine and hope you will return to your senses.

Our most bright children – cling to our Divine Father of the Multiverse – for he will not fail you as you come before him with love.” -The Ancients

Religion And Belief - From The Ancients Perspective

Religion and False Teachings upon humanity, were always supposed to divide us

"Long have we seen the horror inflicted by man on his brother. Few can question your talents for death and destruction. War is your greatest achievement. What many call "religion" is nothing more than a proving ground for predators, thieves, animals, and those bent on doing great harm. These beings rise in darkness or with the help of clergy, false prophets and others. They know that to control people they must first enslave them in thought.

Down through time, this enslavement has always been through religion. For the few that truly profess to do no harm from most religious beliefs, can or will hold to this for very long. The very nature of most religions is to conquer and divide; to powerfully hate, even if this hate is shrouded in religious fervor.

The very few who do use religion to do the work of light are so few that they are impossibly outnumbered by the masses who simply exist and blindly follow those who will destroy.

The masses always seek religion as an escape, a social gathering, a place to speak ill of others and almost never for the real work of spreading goodness and love.

Many listen to so called words of great wisdom from religion, yet it does nothing to change them. A brief feeling of guilt or deep need of forgiveness is enough for them as they pause then go about their work of darkness and oppression of their fellow.

Religious doctrine fails humanity time and time again, more so because of your inherited thoughts of need to do harm to your fellow being. This need is great, powerful, and fed by dark forces.

If you hear nothing else hear this; all world religions fall short because they divide humanity. For by dividing beings from beings, you cause great harm. This is the real terror.

Harming another, you feed off their misery and substitute the right energy of love and joy for the narcotic of anger and fear. Many seek this darkness and feel this as power. Yet it is a lie fed by the dark forces. Because they have this dark power, they will not give this up for the light. And it will consume them and offer nothing in its wake. Yet they hold the key to their own freedom. For you all are blessed with talents that you may magnify at will. What you love is what will grow in your life. Yet also, what you hate is what will grow in your life.

That choice hence far by many has been to destroy. To harm. To divide. To oppress another being who is seeking truth, love and joy is an unspeakable evil to us.

Man is the only highly intelligent predator that systematically and directly feeds on their own kind. You oppress and divide on the mere skin color of a being. On the way they look or dress.

How can such a class of being who judges others so be called anything but an animal? How can you let this continue? We stand beside you and see this happening day after day. We are horrified.

Death, division and hurt are now your art. How mighty in darkness you have become. Fools. Awaken! You must awaken from your horrible nightmare, and soon, lest your soul partakes in the consumption of the whole universe."

Footfalls of the Ancients

When Our Species Was Young And New

In the beginning, humanity struggled for its place in the cosmos. We were awash with the forces of light and darkness.

The primordial.

We were all alone. In confusion. In Pain. In need. Less than human, were we. Simply to survive was our greatest need. Far from many distractions of today, it was a struggle that forced humanity to think.

We turned our eyes to the heavens looking for answers great and powerful, it was filled with eternal beauty. At night, the lights were both awe inspiring and filled with hope. We believed and began to learn from the heavens and the night.

Soon we discovered fire. Fire taught us much because. it warmed us, cooked our food and gave us peace from the countless dangers of the night. It taught us to look skyward as the flames whispered to and prodded our imagination. Yet it was when we also turned our eyes inward the real journey began. This was the true beginning of wisdom.

We "The Ancients" have gazed down the corridors of time through countless lives. We have read the many secrets passed from one generation to another and kept this wisdom to ourselves until the time was right.

We taught the great ones who walked upon the sands of the world. We have placed these words here for you now. Read these words for they are appropriate in this time and will greatly benefit you.

Meditate upon these words as if your life depended upon it because they truly do.

Always remember there are no endings without a new beginning. You are ready for change. You are here because of it.

Wesdoo,

We will be watching always and with great love."

-The Ancients

The Most Remarkable Teachings Are Yours

What we allow to come into our lives will also control us in some form.

"When you continually bring in negative thoughts and feelings, you keep that energy alive inside you. What happens is more of these thoughts build up inside. We know this creates negative energy from within the universe, that responds to your sad and unhappy thoughts.

Without you consciously understanding this process, you have brought more sadness back into your life. This becomes a bottomless cavern for many as they create sorrow over and over again in their life.

When you become so low in sorrow, you will not receive the greatest wisdom and ancient teachings. You can only resonate sadness; thereby drawing it more to you. You will not see anything of what we teach you, because you choose to deal in your own pain.

So, we will leave you until once again your energy is based in joy and happiness. Everything that happens to you is because you will it to be such. While we value your company, we cannot help your higher self when it's in a sad vibration, which eventually causes negative problems upon humanity as sad beings. You must always resonate happy thoughts at all costs because negative energy, cannot exist around positive vibrations.

The creation of your thoughts can be very powerful which runs run through energy lines within the universe. (Called The Wire and dimensional beings use it all the time).

A happy thought is much easier to transmit than an unhappy one. These happy thoughts, whence they build, bring us euphoria which allows us to share with others.

The Way We See Energy

Energy – Symbols - Constructs and Connection

Energy travels around in your body and reaches a pinnacle that is sent out into the universe as humans are both conductors and receivers of energy.

Positive energy is strong and it can be passed back and forth to help others attune in the same way. We feel the positive energy and are drawn to this bright energy.

We seek out the bright lights and it's in this time, we now see you are ready to evolve.

We will start with whisperings to your heart. You will see the light sooner than you think.

Higher energy levels from the manifestation of your thoughts are always possible.

There will always be those beings that will not understand this process but rather understand the reason behind it.

We know that there are many that will teach and guide others. We constantly seek these ones out. They receive the energy on a higher plane to communicate with. These human guides will be the beacons of light and hope for many.

Many beings will simply listen. Many more will seek out the wrong answer, even at the cost of their life. We seek to answer both beings.

We now encourage you to write down powerful words on paper. These words will contain your desires to the universe. Bring your intentions to the universe so it will be received. Some of you may prefer to use symbols for this request, because your higher self may only understand symbols, just as another being may only understand emotions.

Bring all your emotions and attention to your written symbols because we know it's easier to manifest thoughts from a symbol and why we offer this process to you.

Many civilizations have used this thought process and we see no reason to change this. Study the ancients for there is power in their teachings. We are the ancients, and so are some of you. Become one with us once again.

These teachings have been passed down through many ages and we have always encouraged those who needed to know and those who wander lost.

We also reject the teachings of the dark ones who walk the outer reaches of the vastness of the universe. You must do the same.

A ship will crash against rocks if the light beacon is not lit in the dark sea. Do not allow your dark thoughts to engulf you in the same manner. You can perish at your own hands if you do not set your course away from the rocks. Be guided by your higher self and always trust in your instinct.

Your higher self is one of the brightest lights known. It is deep inside you, a tremendous power. Bright light in all forms has been known throughout time as a symbol of energy and power. In this light, there is purity of our soul.

Your higher self is the light transmitter of the positive energy flow. This bright light energy draws us closer to you. Your higher self is the true being and it's more than just flesh and bone, you are also energy and millions of memories.

We Are Drawn To Bright Lights

The bright light energy draws goodly dimensional beings closer to us

We hear many of your thoughts and respond. We prefer to gather together as a family to teach, as the energy is stronger for you to receive.

Our names are not as important but rather you understanding our purpose. We talk in unison and make all communication common for your understanding.

Fear us not but rather accept us and respond to the teachings as old as time. Accept that not everyone will know us on a spiritual level. We choose who will be the voice for us to guide others.

In this time there are many who now represent our voice. Hear what you must and grow wise. Even if you do not speak for us, you may echo the thoughts to help humanity evolve. It is your sacred duty.

For a being may do good works without deeper understanding until that day arrives when their awakening removes all doubt.

- Guidance is a learned task that requires much patience.
- Patience brings more understanding.
- Understanding brings more wisdom.
- Wisdom brings more harmony.
- Harmony brings more joy.
- Joy brings more love.
- Finally love brings completeness.
- These are the steps that we encourage you to be guided by.

Do not listen to the voices of chaos. They also exist. These voices are the cruel intentions. They will destroy you. Our mere presence for this learning is valuable. Understand. Many words have been written, but we did not teach them.

Gather yourselves to those that would now teach you our words in full. The wave of mankind's energy is changing. We are here to help in this transition as you are also part of us. The anger of the past and present is from misguided ones who cannot see.

Soon a peaceful new order will arise as humanity grows weary of hate. The old ones who dwell in the shadows control and hold captive those who would choose another way. Their words are tainted with blood the spilled and we have seen all the darkness and pain.

Twisted words are now to be replaced with words that fill you with joy. Your thoughts are your own and none have the right to control them.

Dark words have made much sorrow over many centuries in time. We have heard all the words and confusion.

You were made in a perfect state. Your mind is greater than any mechanical invention you can create. To create any invention, it was a single thought and vision in the mind. This in turn became a symbol from which to draw energy. That energy created the very invention held in the mind.

So now we say create your own construct of perfection from your mind. Your responses to your thoughts are the gifts from which you shall receive. Place yourself inside an energy construct; ask to be guided by enriched teachings.

Your mind's thoughts are seen as symbols to us. We connect to your energy and all the energy around your thoughts. The process of thought is remarkable indeed and the universe harvests all thoughts. If you believe it is, then it shall be.

*Make clear choices and stand firm upon them.
If you doubt your choice, then it is not the correct decision.*

- ❖ Process your thoughts carefully to receive positive energy.
- ❖ Every day make your bright energy shine.
- ❖ Grow into a new understanding.
- ❖ Replace negative thoughts with a strong flow of positive energy.
- ❖ Believe all this and you will be master of your own destiny.

We will be watching you with interest.

Wisdom Spoken from the Ancients

The Ancients are wisdom

“True wisdom is not often spoken. It can be learned through experience. Lower animals learn quickly. Higher ones should too but they often do not. Their intelligence and emotions can cloud their observations and choices. You always seek to reach beyond what you have but until you understand the now, you may never have what you truly want. Freedom. Love. Goodness.

A being that looks at a pyramid does so from the bottom. He views the top as far away and naturally fears the height. You must see yourself at the top of the pinnacle looking down.

Use your imagination and create a construct whereby you see yourself at the top. Whether it be a mountain, a building or an ancient artifact, your imagination can create a positive energy flow around your body. Then and only then will you understand it's this thought that few grasp. Being on the top ensures you will and must succeed as you attract those things into your life that ensure it. This on top must be in your mind and expand outward.

Remember you must remove obstacles from your mind. Otherwise, you will cloud your thoughts and never attract that what you must have to complete the vision. We seek to fill the gaps. We seek to fill you with your true power when you came here to learn long ago.

It was by choice that you arrived here on planet Earth. To prevent the madness and confusion you entered this world with no memory. Many of your memories have been stolen from you and why some of us are here to help you rebuild the lost pieces.

We have been your teachers in many different lives by choice, as we are also you. Many of us have existed over and over; it is what grants us strength and love and power.

Overcome Your Fear And Grow Strong

Fear Is the Destroyer of Common Sense and Strength

"We gather in the darkness and we watch. We are surrounded by the sands of your world, projecting our thoughts to those who will now listen. For the message we bring is one of hope, love, trust, faith, and learning of the ancient ways.

Do not fear us. Do not truly fear any being. Do not allow fear to destroy you. Fear is indeed the only true and last remaining enemy.

For the few that discover this, there is great power in this thought. We do not mean foolhardiness. We mean to live a life free from irrational fears and bondage to them. In the end there is truly nothing to fear.

Fear is the first great struggle you must overcome to strengthen you for the days to come. For what being can truly harm you if you have no fear?

More so you must unlock fear from your inner being. Fear of your past. Fear of the future. Most of all you must remove fear of all of the simplest things that constantly restrict your joy, inner peace and connectivity with your inner being. Once fear is gone you are able to set the wheels in motion for the betterment of your life and this will affect all beings in your path. Free yourself. Free your family and free all those you touch.

We have whispered these words into many great beings of your world.

Those who listened have and shall live forever, in the minds and hearts of many.

Learn from them and their writings." -The Ancients

Why We Use Symbols

The Ancients understand symbols better than language

"We are always with you. We are watching as you speak to each other. Words become patterns of action that create things that transform into lasting living symbols. By the symbol, you must become known.

Symbols transcend life and last throughout the ages. By your symbol you grow strong. By your symbol you become more than just you. Your past must be examined to grow to your future and unlock this symbol.

Look for patterns in your past. What you love. What you do. Search the inner depths of your heart and experiences that caused you pain in your past. They are linked. Use this information to discover and unlock it.

Master your symbol.

Then and only then will you truly master your life -The Ancients

From Childhood into Adulthood

Play laugh and live

"As children, we were at play. Play taught us much; how to make sense of the world around us, how to interact with those around us too. Most importantly, how to simply be. The being becomes lost over the years as we move from child to teenager. Not fully adult, not a child, we search for deeper meaning in our lives.

We want to grow but so much prevents this. In the end, we suffer with the realization we are not free as children, or as able as adults. So, we struggle to come to terms with things that are beyond us. Only when we touch our inner being do we transcend our age and become eternal and aware.

All the wisdom of the greatest and wisest cannot be achieved until we first embrace our past. Become one with the child outside and deep inside. Laugh often.

Play as you have never played before. For play is the essence of discovery and before a great doorway, you will then stand.

Open the door and pass through to discover that you are a child again - this time whole and healed ready for adulthood. -The Ancients

Spiritual Beings At Rest

The inner being and you

All beings sleep, even spirits rest from their labors. Rest is good if balance is to be maintained. Yet many humans sleep deeply and never awaken. They journey through life asleep. They never touch their inner being and discover their true power. How can any being offer anything to their kind if they will not awaken? It is madness to us. So much power you have; heart, wisdom, love and strength. Yet you squander it foolishly.

*Arise and go forward. Lead your kind out of darkness and be strong in this time.
Offer only your best - because in the end only you can. Only you can touch the universe when you awaken.*

How can you awaken to your own spirituality? How can you achieve this new state? First, you must give to others of your positive energy and there are 2 choices to make, which are in service to yourself or in service to others and we highly recommend the latter. In service to others attracts positive energy flows and sets the Universe in motion toward you.

Like a great pendulum that swings one way, every thought and energy you loose on the universe, by law, must return to you in some form. We mean give to those who can most benefit from your gifts as they will benefit you the most in cause and effect.

Never give your energy to a human animal and never use dark powers, either.
Your gift must be in secret and with love to the being who truly needs and craves the help.

When you do this, the response will be one of gratitude and thanksgiving. You will receive this energy back and it will build upon your being. Accept it with thanksgiving as well and use this new energy to create ever more and more positive experiences in your life. Positive energy must be channelled somewhere. Where you place this energy is where your gifts will grow. For you are already powerful souls, deeply loved by our Divine Father. – The Ancients

The Energy Connection

Energy-Spirals-Constructs

"Everything is energy and it moves in spirals. From the smallest twist of spiralled DNA to the swirls of distant galaxies, the universe is a marvel of the energies within attraction and creation. Most will wander through life never understanding they are also a part of the spiral dance in life.

Seeking to create our own universe, rising and falling, growing and living, our lives go in cycles. In the end we learn that we have lived and yes loved before and will again in some form.

It is that soul form that we must connect with to tap our strength and feel the ebb and flow of critical energies.

The moment of truth comes when we are enlightened a moment of joy when we have learned a critical lesson in life; and this is always because we have the strength to continue forward when others fall back. To connect with the universal power. The divine in us and outside of us.

Wisdom will then favor the strong of heart. Be brave and do not fear for we are all connected."

See Who You Are

Communicate With Your Third Eye

"You must see who you are to become, in order for this miracle to happen.

Yes, you can change almost anything in your life. With clarity and focus through meditation, you can achieve a state of perfect peace and then create anything in your life. Trust in this because your higher self-cries out to be discovered."

The ancient in you cries out to be heard so go within. Trust your gut instincts more because that's the being inside guiding you down the path of life.

So many people ignore that little voice when it says to reconsider your options. Listen more because most of the time, those feelings are right. Trust in yourself more and let go of anything that brings your energy down.

You are energy and you transmit energy to other sentient beings around you. If something doesn't feel right, then don't do it.

Trust that your higher self already knows everything about you. As the old saying goes, trust your gut instincts.

Love Is The Answer To Every Problem

The most amazing power and energy in the multiverse...

It is the answer to every problem; it is the foundation to all things. It fulfils the deepest dreams and heals all wounds.

We speak of the most amazing power, yet one you completely reject; Love.

It is more than something fools babble over; it is MORE than the lip service you pay to it. It is the deepest way of true living. It IS life. Why do you not see this? Why do you hold back?

We have shown you over the centuries. We have created songs of light to guide you; we have spoken to YOU tirelessly. Still, you turn your back on us. The one and only truth of this most amazing power. Even still, we love you. Can you not see this?

We have raised you to know far better. We are deeply in love with you; yet you turn from us, again and again. You squander love into a poison and serve it to the masses as lust. You sell yourself in the streets as a harlot. You are a fool for anything BUT true love.

Why will you not regain your senses? What must we do to make you see love again?

We are the Ancients. We know you search us out but when we reveal the truth, you simply will not accept it.

We feel your unhappiness; your desire to flee from us. To hide away and believe we cannot see you anymore.

We know when you are complete; and yet without some of us to guide you, it will never be so for many. Can you not pause in your great desire to do harm and do what is good?

To be forgiven? Can you not hold us deep in your heart? Embrace us? Does our form or species frighten you? Many believe we do not exist, but yet here we are. We are your deepest most primal love.

We know you can understand the most basic things even if you try and forget them. You have been taught to seek out and wield punishment to beings to look different, think on their own, and mock those who warn of impending danger.

We know this is not who you really are and why we love you on a level you simply cannot comprehend;

Will you not end your madness once and for all to come together?

We are your ancient guides and instructors who implore you to listen now.

We are your ancient fathers and mothers and we cry for you, as a lost child in the wind but we will never leave YOU. Rather it will be YOUR Free Will that chooses us or not.

Do not abandon our eternal Divine Father, lest you weave a tragic tale of sorrow.

We seek only what is your rightful blessing and to reveal the real power that preserves. Only then will you finally understand how deep our love truly is. - The Ancients

Can You Feel It Happening?

The passageways of many ancient timelines are now converging upon this realm.

"The passageways of many timelines have brought us here to this point in history.

Humanity is ready for the next step - the spiritual connection. You can feel it in the air and see it in the eyes of many - as they all crave change.

Humanity must be free to explore their own vision. History is filled with the echoes of the past that will illuminate the future. Let your spirit be the beacon of light that shines from within.

Let your spiritual past and inner being - an ancient being - set the tone for your wonderful future.

Make your responses resonate euphoria so you may receive the blessings in turn." -The Ancients

When We Dream

Visualization and our dreams

“For many centuries we were taught sleep consciousness.

There is a single element missing in the information you may have received from others.
This is what we speak to you now, listen and change your world.

Your body is governed by rules when you are in a conscious state.
You awaken and know your destiny for that day.
Your brain is the controller of your conscious and awake self.
Therefore, you already know the rules are set for the day ahead.

When your brain sleeps, there are no rules, and therefore, nothing holds you back. You are free to dream, invent, travel and research who you are.

Just before sleep takes over the flesh, there is a brief opening in time.
In that moment you become one with the universe.
Make these seconds count because they offer you everything.

Bring all your wishes to the universe in that moment.
Whether by symbol or thought, it does not matter.
Link with the universe for that short time, for there is much power in this window.
Few studies have been conducted on this topic.
Use it to free yourselves once and for all.” - The Ancients

The Senoi Indians

Dream Therapy

If you have not heard of the Senoi people and their dream therapy practice, we encourage you to learn more about them, as they offer valuable insights from The Ancient.

“The beliefs and practices of various Native American groups, as well as the general use of dreams in spiritual healing by tribal peoples all over the world, have been incorporated into the dreamwork movement.” Source: <https://dreams.ucsc.edu/Library/senoi.html>

Senoi Dream Theory: Myth, Scientific Method, and the Dreamwork Movement by G. William Domhoff Dream Theory In Malaya by Kilton Stewart

In our family, we practice dream therapy just before we begin to nod off sleep. This warm, sleepy feeling is the perfect time to communicate with the Universe. You can make a simple request to the Divine Father, along with a C.C. message to the Divine Courts. When asking questions, do so with gratitude and a pure heart. Remember to include everyone at your request, as we are all interconnected with those in need.

Divine beings are often more receptive to us immediately before we fall asleep. This is largely because we feel relaxed at that time and sleep helps us detach from the stress of our daily routines. Our bodies enter a calm, passive state, which is ideal for making connections. Additionally, engaging in meditation and prayer can enhance one’s ability to communicate effectively during this peaceful period.

How The Ancients View The 3D Death

In The Final Quiet Moments of Your Fleshly Existence

"In the final quiet moments of our lives, we become the thing we have rejected most of our life. At one with the universe. Death is the great test of all of humanity's character. The final act. Do not fear.

You may not know us or even believe in us, but we believe in you. We love you on a level you simply cannot imagine. You are our children, the children of hope, of light, and you will live again to do what is good and just.

Remember that you can make the world a brighter place. Call on us. We are eternal and filled with hope for all of our children.

Help us to save the world.
Your world.

Better days are soon to be." - The Ancients

What is Consciousness by Owen

Victoria's grandfather was one of the most enlightened people we had the privilege of knowing; and so, when he passed away, it was difficult for us to let him go. Owen was a family member, who understood the spiritual connection his granddaughter was having with dimensional beings. Owen understood because like Victoria, was only a child when he began interacting with them too.

Years ago, our family sent Owen a copy of the book “Catch Falling Stars” and he was very happy to have it. In a letter replying to Victoria, he mentioned feeling something about one of her past lives, that would eventually connect us to The Windfathers. He believed Victoria was one of the daughters of Manco Capac. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Manco_C%C3%A1pac

When Victoria finally got around to speaking with Owen about her communication with beings since she was small, Owen replied with “Darling girl, it happened to Grandad as well, and I have to tell you, I’m so glad someone else in our family had these experiences too.”

Once a week, Victoria and Owen would have a long-extended phone call from the USA to Australia with each other, so she could learn about spirituality from her grandfather’s perspective.

Before he passed on, Owen sent The Kelley’s a package filled with his notes, images concerning the Nazca Lines and other writings on spirituality. Owen devoted a great deal of his life studying other spiritual avenues such as what is consciousness, the spiritual “Golden Thread” and then incorporating all of that knowledge into his practice of Hatha Yoga.

In Owens Words – Who I Am

"I am spirit around which the fabric of my life has been woven, but to express it in a more practical way, I am the consciousness to whom the panorama of physical, mental and emotional processes (which constitutes my life story) has revealed itself to me.

It was in this present life, that I became aware, spirit equates with consciousness and vice versa. The practice of self-remembering gradually developed into spiritual awareness and because of the vital importance of this statement, I have come to know both ancient and modern teachings to support this assertion.

At the beginning of any understanding, there first must be a fierce desire for accurate knowledge. This desire will eventually find its correct path, if sustained and carried over to periods of doubt, which invariably arise from time to time.

It started for me at a very early age.

I was given spiritual insights as a child, which increased throughout my life. As my intellect grew, so did my spiritual prowess. I am still learning in my elder years, but I feel I have gained much knowledge. I will be learning for infinity to fully understand what lies in between. In other words, we never stop learning no matter how ancient you may be.

Others born onto this planet may have wished for wealth and possessions; I only asked for wisdom. I know that my prayers and meditations were answered because, even though I am old now, my mind is still sharp.

With me, it is not a matter of just belief but knowing through experience and revelations I have come upon throughout my life, so I say these things with great humility and thankfulness. Wisdom is not just a static quality, but it grows as experience and participation in your life events also change.

I am also thankful for having the love of a wonderful mother during this life along with my great love for our divine father, which has grown stronger with the passage of time.

These are some of the guidelines that one must believe in order to draw closer to our Divine Father.

- * One must believe in higher power and its existence
- * Learn to overcome emotional obstacles, as there will be many.

- * Develop great love for this higher power and for all humankind.
- * The truth exists in many different and strange forms.
- * Some of the scriptures are sources from which to build accurate knowledge.
- * Association with good people and avoidance of evil in thought and action are also necessary.

I do not advocate or deny the practices of any religious group or sect; however, if other people find them necessary for their daily lives, they have value and they exist for that purpose. They are not for me, even though I have found some value in all or most of them.

I have also studied the Vedas, Upanishads, Bhagavad Gita and similar Hindu scriptures. As well as ancient Chinese writings, the Egyptian book of the dead, the Tibetan book of Yoga and other secret doctrines. Buddhist teachings, the Kabbala and many more to find the golden thread that runs through them all.

Practicing Consciousness and Visualization

The “observer effect” predicted in Quantum, and this theory seems to point toward a consciousness connection. Nevertheless, the question remains for some, how can one measure consciousness? It seems to be IS or IS NOT.

My good friend and teacher John (his main teaching point included Self-Remembrance or past lives). He believed everything is done mechanically in each life, like a great machine working in a slow methodical way. John helped me to understand that anything of lasting value in this reality, came with the continual practice of self-remembrance.

By trying to keep remembrance of yourself to the point of attention and connection, you will soon realize that your will power is nil, so you will feel compelled to look harder. Try and practice this for a period of a minute at first, then two minutes. You will notice the difficulty increase as you hold your attention for longer periods of time.

How To Achieve This Goal

Firstly, you must appreciate what self-remembrance really means. It’s a concept that’s so basic and simple, it normally escapes the notice for most people.

- * I recommend everyone see themselves bathing in the light and love of our Divine Creator as a protection before proceeding.
- * Now close your eyes and look into the darkness of your mind. Do not strain, just look in a totally relaxed way.
- * Visualize a dark screen and realize this is what you are actually seeing.
- * Close your eyelids and shut out all external stimuli.

- * Now that you are feeling more relaxed, begin to split your attention.
- * Realize you are looking at the dark screen.
- * Slowly, try and feel yourself looking directly into the screen. Somewhat like you are watching a movie.
- * When you begin connecting, you become 'consciousness' by observing what's happening on the other side of the screen.
- * Open your eyelids to see the external world reappearing but when you close your eyes again, the dark screen appears.
- * Practice these steps every day and then gradually build up the amount of time you see on the screen.

These exercises eventually become a dimensional reality for YOU. Practicing consciousness and placing a beam of your energy into the dark screen, will help you connect to all that exists inside the Universe So if you wish to understand this form of consciousness more, you must perform these simple steps at least once a day for a few minutes.

The realization of the energy connection becomes self-evident with practice because all truth has a logical foundation to begin with. Therefore, as you become more proficient, you will be able to practice with your eyes open.

You will come to realize that your consciousness, energy-being can walk along a street and connect to others even if they are not aware of you. Eventually, your consciousness is able to leave the body and look out through the eyes of other humans. While this statement may seem unbelievable to you now, with practice all things are possible.

Your energy is not always contained within your flesh, especially when you practice consciousness. You are a sovereign free being and your flesh is the clothing we wear for this Earthly plane. The flesh is only a small part of who you are, so if this statement remains truthful about our soul as all religions and spirituality teach, then we are more than just flesh.

At this time in my studies, I was also developing visualization techniques.

Alternatively, I like to call it "Dynamic Imagination." I created moving images on the dark screen inside my mind. These images became constructs for the purpose of meditation and communication, and its much safer to be inside a construct when we use our consciousness to travel around in the Universe.

Before I go, I also wanted to give you the name of the Yoga Instructor who helped me perfect my practice. Theos Bernard not only taught me yoga but he also educated me on Tibetan Buddhism.

I am very grateful for the education I received from the Master Yoga instructor and spiritual teacher and I feel blessed to have become one of his students. I really hope these notes, will be able to help whomever reads them.

Warmest Wishes – Owen

During WW2 Owen also served in the Australian Army, relayed messages that came in from radio communications. A few months before Owen passed into the 5th dimension in 2010, he received a Defence Medal from the Australian Military for his service during WW2.

Grandad had a pretty amazing life filled with various kinds of adventures and knowledge. We have included just a small part of the entire transcript he sent to us a few months before he passed on.

Since Owen's ascension into the 5th dimension, 15 years ago, he now works as an arbiter in one of Father Divine Cities. It was his human experiences and background in understanding dimensions along with his knowledge on spiritual energy and other religious teachings, i.e.: Buddhism, the Hindi faith and Christian teachings which helped him become an arbiter. Divinities praise knowledge, wisdom and family over just about everything else they understand from our souls.*

You Have Forgotten The Way - A Video Message From The Ancients

Messages To Earth from The Aquatics – aka The Oceanics

Emissary for the Oceanics

"If you do not learn how to keep your oceans cared for and clean
then you must learn how to breathe water."
-The Oceanics (8th dimensional beings)
04-29-2022

Did you ever watch the movie Abyss, which came out in 1989? If you've never seen the movie, we recommend taking a look. In the Abyss, there is a scene in which non-terrestrial life has to save humans deep down in darker waters. The movie shows these beings as almost translucent with a wing-type structure on their backs.

The Oceanics is the name our family has called these beings for many years, but they are also known as The Aquatics to many others across this multiverse. These beings are essential to any realm having healthy water and sea proteins to help nourish soil and grow healthy crops.

Many of the ancient people followed instructions from the Oceanics, which explains why food was grown in canals and on manmade islands where fish swarms could swim freely in and out of these canals, in places like South America, Egypt, and parts of Asia.

The Oceanics helped us develop natural ways of growing food and taught us how to maintain open water properly. Growing in water allows plants constant moisture and the natural bacteria in the water, turns fish waste ammonia into beneficial nutrients for the plants. In modern times we call this ancient method of growing fish proteins and plants together as "aquaponics" and it's recommended as the better way to grow food by The Oceanics. Tatianne also known as Tat is an 8th dimensional being who speaks with our family. She is one of the five elders who help guide the water.

When The Ancients Speak

The Oceanics were supposed to control the waters upon Earth-Terra, as written into the original covenants placed upon this realm. These covenants were originally given to the island and Japanese people because there was a mutual respect for different species at that time.

These beings gave land dwellers a constant supply of protein sources from the water as a gift. They offered different schools of fish, crustaceans, and shellfish in exchange for respecting the water and leaving certain sentient species alone. There were always unique species, such as octopi, dolphins, blue tuna, turtles, and whales, that were never supposed to be touched, and these covenants were agreed upon eons ago.

The Oceanics asked us to put a video together of their agreements and covenants, which have been broken across this realm. You can take a look at this video here.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Pg5SoR3Fxq0>

This 8th dimensional species is unhappy with the condition of the waters and the destruction of their home upon this realm. They asked those who dwell on the soil to be more conscious of the pollution that is carelessly thrown into the water every day, but few have listened. Sometimes you have to get other beings' attention with weather, and not all of the flooding you see happening across this realm is natural or planned. Some of this is spiritually based, no matter how much others want to deny it.

I would like to show you an episode of Star Trek Enterprise when Captain James Archer met with the Zindi Aquatics. The conversation is about the "Alien Invasion" happening on Earth. If you still believe that this is just a television show and a fantasy, then we understand why you would think that way. However, if the world you are now living in is falling apart and does not really have the answers you seek, isn't it time to think dimensionally and out of the box?

There is always truth in the entertainment that comes from Hollywood but because of the way it is presented, most people will never believe it's anything other than just a television show.

Section 2

Who is The Divine Father of the Multiverse?
Does he or she really exist?

The trick is...

YOU have to Believe

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jtPxakTSVH8>

In this section of the book, we will discuss who our family knows as the Divine Father, also known as The Ancient of Days, The All Father, and The Divine Creator of the Multiverse.

If you believe there is no such being, we thank you for your time and visit. This is where our belief's part ways, because how do you know for sure we are incorrect, especially if most of our history is a lie to begin with?

Belief is one of those words which also has another word 'LIE' inside, so we understand your hesitancy but look around friend, our world is crumbling before your eyes too. Is that also made up when you can see events occurring with your physical eyes now? Why not open your mind and heart to a new awareness, because the possibilities are endless when it comes to communication between The Divine and You.

We also know there are many fraudsters who claim the same; therefore, we understand people's hesitancy to believe. However, if what you have learned in this life cycle hasn't changed that much in the past, then what do you have to lose by listening to some of the teachings our family delivers? We are not "those other people" nor do we parade over the top displays of wealth or ride around in private planes. Actually, if we are to explain the truth and make it easy to understand, Jesus had no wealth either nor did he want any, so who's real fraud here?

Proverbs 11: 1-4 (NIV) "The Lord detests dishonest scales, but accurate weights find favor with him. When pride comes, then comes disgrace, but with humility comes wisdom. The integrity of the upright guides them, but the unfaithful are destroyed by their duplicity. Wealth is worthless in the day of wrath, but righteousness delivers from death."

We are offering education that has been passed down in our unique family situation, therefore we do not ask you to believe anything that doesn't jive with you. We do however stand by what we teach, which is to learn to trust the higher self.

The Divine Father is looking for those hidden gems in the rough, which equates to beings who can open their minds and come to an understanding of who they really are. This journey is not hard in the sense you may think, but more about facing the darker side of ourselves and learning to forgive that person in the mirror too. How can you get to know Father if you still do not understand you first? Gotta do the work for this communication to happen.

Who is the Divine Father?

YouTube: <https://youtu.be/Bh3jT-g2UNk>

Some skeptics may read the information throughout these pages and question its validity immediately. We fully understand why individuals might feel this way, particularly in light of the current events that are unfolding in the world and you have to admit the chaos is becoming more obvious all the time.

The truth is our real understanding about the Divine Father is virtually nonexistent now, whereas once upon a time, we understood our relationship with Father better and we lived in sync with his Universal Laws too.

Think about it, most of the information we learned about The Divine Father, came from where? A book? Who were the writers and how many times has the book been rewritten since? How did the writers know the truth about the Divine Father, especially if they never conversed with him before? Where did they get their information from?

In our family, communication with The Divine Father is telepathic, verbal and sometimes physical. Our family have come to know the Divine Father in a different way, which didn't exactly match up with book beliefs either. Father was way more approachable than a book ever wanted us to believe and he was much kinder too. We also came to learn that he loved his ALL OF THE children of dark and light origin, no matter what the book said.

Our Divine Creator is...
Light and Dark - Night and Day
Walk The Way...

Why should you trust in anything our family has been teaching?

To answer that question, firstly, each of us possesses the free will to determine whether the education we offer resonates with your innermost self. Over the many years, we have also encouraged individuals to conduct their personal research and learn to trust the higher self for guidance - we still believe this is the correct way.

Ultimately, it will be your free will that decides whether you choose to explore more about the Divine Father and your connection to all that exists, or not. Our Family can only show you the door, but you are the one who has to step through for a new understanding.

We are messengers who deliver information from the dimensional worlds, just as many others before us have also given out information to this realm, so ultimately, it will be YOUR free will that chooses to listen or not.

While many may argue the concept of God, as we describe, does not exist, you would be correct; because everyone's perception of 'Father' varies, based on an individual's understanding and imagination. Therefore, if you see Father as pure light energy, then your perception would be different to ours and that's perfectly acceptable.

Our Divine Father embodies energy in its highest form, yet as a creator, it's also entirely possible for him to be sitting on a park bench watching people walk by in the city in avatar form. Father has avatars everywhere upon this realm, so you never know who might be conversing with you one day at the local pharmacy or fruit stand, and it's often those amazing iridescent blue eyes that gaze deeply into your soul and when you least expect it to happen.

Victoria was seventeen when she met a well-dressed man in Bondi Junction, Sydney. He had piercing turquoise eyes, which was the very first thing she noticed about this man. He was also tall, handsome, well-spoken and articulate.

The two sat together and talked for about an hour, whereby this man also asked Victoria a few personal growth questions. He wanted to know whether she was happy and her plans for the future—the type of questions which resembled the kind a concerned parent might ask their son or daughter. After this conversation concluded, the man got up, never to be seen again.

Even though Victoria never interacted with this being again, the memory of meeting him, has remained strong throughout her life and she never forgot his presence.

Acts 2:17 (NIV) states, “In the last days, God says, I will pour out my spirit on all people. Your sons and daughters will prophesy, your young men will see visions, your old men will dream dreams.”

We are bell ringers and like many others who have traversed similar paths upon this realm, the message has always remained the same. Ultimately, the choice is yours to explore whether the information we provide resonates with your higher self's understanding.

The Divine Father tells us that he is known by many different names across various realms in the multiverse. However, of all the names The Father of All has, he still prefers the title of "Father or Grandfather." The title of Father holds a special significance to him because it implies, there are children “Father” can get to know and care for.

No matter what others may say, the Divine Father is not unattainable to any of us.

Did you know that once upon a time, our ancestors would rise early each day to greet the morning sun between the two pillars in their village, which was called Dawn Greeter. This story has been passed down in our family for many years, conveying how our understanding of the sun has shifted from recognizing it as pure light energy from the Divine Father to a point where it became associated with blood sacrifice.

The teachings became inverted, therefore, spiritual blessings once deemed good practices, also became negative upon this realm, along with many other original teachings.

*In ancient times, people would raise their hands to the sky and position their fingers in a triangular shape together because three is a number of perfection. The ancient people would sing a song to the great one who lived in the sun, the one who one who made all things possible. They gave thanks for the crops, their healthy children, and everything they had. During this time, our Divine Father would bless the children who came together as one voice at sunrise. This way of communicating with The Divine Father was called 'Dawn Greeter.'

Our Divine Father is the energy of the highest form, but as a creator, he is not limited to a specific form either; so, he actually could walk right past you in a store, in one of his avatar forms. Father has done this very thing throughout history and will even live (a small particle of himself) in an avatar body for a lifetime, just so he can understand life from another perspective. This is some of the information Father shared with me, so Terrans can understand, a personal connection to Father through your higher self, is real, but the trick is, you have to believe this is possible.

To communicate with the Divine Father in this realm, many were taught that a go-between was necessary to speak on our behalf. Religion has instilled the belief that such intermediaries are required; however, this is not true, especially when we already possess a pineal gland that can communicate with various forms of energy. Teachings that insist on following specific methods first, often aim to control our thoughts and emotions.

The Divine Father wants all beings in this realm to understand that he is not unattainable, contrary to what has been described for thousands of years. This misconception has persisted, partly due to scholars rewriting spiritual texts like the Bible, leading people to believe otherwise. This kind of spiritual indoctrination was deliberate, designed to make us feel that Father is beyond our reach and, therefore, less relevant. Questions about his existence—whether real or merely a myth—were instilled in us as part of wider religious and political agendas.

For centuries, our Divine Father has been pushed to the background, while various false religions have manipulated your feelings and thoughts through their methods of control. They provided just enough information to keep you believing that Father has only one Divine Son, but the truth is, father has many sons and daughters who have also brought beautiful, uplifting messages and teachings to humanity.

In Matthew 7:22-23 (NIV), it is stated: "Many will say to me on that day, 'Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, and in your name drive out demons and perform many miracles?' Then I will tell them plainly, 'I never knew you. Away from me, you evildoers!'"

Mike and I explored ancient texts about divinities and gods, but the one thing, which stood out to us, we discovered common themes weaving through many of these works. There is a Great Divine Presence in the Multiverse that each of us can access by going within first. Additionally, we recognize that Universal Laws are established for all beings to live by. Unfortunately, these laws have often been distorted to suit the desires of spiritual leaders and politicians throughout history, which continues today.

If you wish to learn more about Universal Laws or even gain a new understanding, please click on the links provided below. The Law of One provides essential insights into living a spiritually fulfilling and productive life. You can also download the PDF for the written copy as follows:

Our family encourages you to explore the linked information. Just as Don Elkins and Carla Rueckert channeled the Law of One, we have also channeled insights from the collective of beings we refer to as The Ancients. For over two decades, we have been receiving messages from various beings, similar to the way Don and Carla communicated with the RA.

The Ancients, as we refer to them, have been educating us for so long now; we regard these beings as our family. They became a part of our lives even before our sons were born, and have continued to impart spiritual wisdom and love.

Our dimensional family emphasizes the importance of gaining wisdom from a variety of books and alternative sources of information. We were taught to identify the Middle Pathway that connects different dimensions and worlds because each of these teachings contains valuable knowledge, truth, and wisdom. Ultimately, the goal of humanity is to achieve a sense of completeness and peace.

The gatekeepers of this realm do not want us to uncover the spiritual deception we have been under for centuries. However, our ancestors understood the workings of energy and their connection to all that is, including the effects on our pineal gland, especially when we learn to turn inward and then reach out toward communication with the Divine Father.

Father's Appearance In Avatar Form

How many beings in our family perceive this avatar form of the Divine Father

The Divine Father presents himself to our family as a distinguished elderly man with white wavy hair, stunning blue eyes, a well-groomed beard, dressed in an 18th-century white suit. Father is also occasionally seen with a walking cane on his left hand. While other people within this matrix may have described Father similarly, the avatar he projects to our family, is personal and unique to our interactions.

The Divine Father has a closet full of avatars and I call it changing his outfit. Just like you change your clothes and fashion style, it's not beyond the Divine Father to change his look either, and he does this to make his children feel comfortable around him.

In Hinduism, an avatar is defined as a manifestation of a deity or liberated soul in bodily form on Earth, representing an incarnate divine teacher.

Others have also observed a similar avatar image that Father occasionally projects onto us. While he may not always wear an 18th-century suit, some may envision him as an elderly white-haired gentleman with a walking cane and beard. Father has been described as having bright blue eyes along with a nice smile, but he may also appear as Oden (The All Father) to beings who understand this culture better or if you see the father as a bolt of energy and light, that is, how he will present himself to you. Whatever form can be understood better from your personal perspective because Father is Light and Dark, Night and Day, Winter and Summer.

The Divine Father of the Multiverse, can also take on different forms like female, male, black, white, or even another species if he so wishes. This is just a fraction of the unique and dimensional nature about the Divine Father.

You Are All Worthy Despite What You Were Taught

It is possible to connect with our Divine Father

Some people believe they could never speak to our Divine Father because they made significant mistakes in their lives. The truth is that you are a divine soul who can forgive along with the ability to connect spiritually. The pineal gland serves as a natural communication device that facilitates this connection, thereby allowing the Divine Father to know how much you wish to communicate. A real heartfelt condition receives fathers' attention quicker than most people know.

The best example I can give about higher self-change are people in prison who once committed serious crimes. Sometimes when beings are incarcerated, this confinement can force a positive change from within. The mental and spiritual changes some undergo is remarkable, with beings often feeling motivated to help their community by practicing mindfulness and positive peace from within.

In many instances, an average person possesses more strength of character and wisdom than those who stand on podiums trying to persuade the public of their political and or religious agenda's. Never give away your energy away to someone who doesn't know how to go within or someone who cannot understand how you want to personally connect with the Divine Father.

YOU can talk to FATHER anywhere, whether on a mountaintop or while swimming in the sea. It is the condition of your heart and your authenticity that will attract the Divine Father's Light Energy, rather than a repetitive prayer taught through the same religious practices.

Approach Father as a child filled with wonder and genuine love. Engage with respect, without making demands or bombarding Father with questions. Instead, focus on asking for Fathers love, protection, and the ability to communicate with him.

Above all, be patient with yourself and the process of going within, as it will take time to recognize the imperfections and flaws. . . ultimately though, this journey of discovery depends entirely upon you and your abilities.

The first time I heard the Divine Father's voice and felt some of that amazing energy, I knew this being was totally unlike all the others we had previously communicated with. There was softness and love that could make a person get down on their knees and sob-like a small child. This energy was so overwhelming and the crying could not be stopped. In addition, we had never known about such love at the same time but throughout the many years, we have felt and seen the presence of a kindly older gentleman with very good taste and manners appear to us, on a regular basis.

The Divine Father said to me once that he could appear female to us, especially if we felt too overwhelmed by the avatar he was projecting at that time. However, both of us grew up understanding more about the male aspect of Father, so that's the avatar which works best for us.

The pure energy Mike and I experienced after our youngest son was killed in a car accident in 2019 was none other than the Divine Father, giving us a big hug and helping us through a very difficult time. Ryan barely survived a traumatic brain injury himself, with big chunks of memory missing at that time. Ryan's near-death experience, ultimately changed his views on the afterlife forever and to this day he does not see the world in the same way anymore. On the brighter side, our son and brother Hunter is still around; he is a 5th dimensional energy now, as is our father and husband Michael. These two father and son energies have been reunited, so the stories you heard about your families waiting for you on the other side are absolutely true.

Please also know there are other aspects of the Divine Father, which also include keeping the laws, which every single one was broken upon this realm. There is also the righteous anger part of Father, and divine justice to carry out. These are just a few aspects of the Divine Father we have come to know, which can be hard for some to understand sometimes because their religious books only taught them one way to think about Father.

Father will always abide by the Universal Laws because he wrote them, but he can also show mercy and forgiveness at the same time. Father can also decide to change his mind because he balances the pros and cons of everything first, which is why it sometimes seems like an eternity before things change in our short lifetimes. A small hiccup and the balance of different energies can combine and easily become unbalanced.

There are a couple of things about The Divine Father that many will find hard to understand because it does not jive with their religious upbringings, and why we have always said in order to know Father, you have to put aside the misconceptions of what you taught because the Divine Father is all about walking the middle path.

What's Wrong with Calling Father Source

We have asked Father several times about being referred to as "Source." He mentioned that this was not his favorite name because he had many others who more accurately described his identity. The term "Source" implies a wide variety of meanings; it is more aligned with the perspective of a hive-mind-thinker and lacks the personal connection that many seek with Father.

"Source" is one of those neutral words often used as a way to shift information away from Father, and then redirecting it back towards the usual broad perspective. But wait a minute, does not the bible instruct us to look for the narrow road and not the broad one?

Matthew 7:13-14 (NIV) "Enter through the narrow gate. For wide is the gate and broad is the road that leads to destruction, and many enter through it. But small is the gate and narrow the road that leads to life, and only a few find it."

Whether you view Father as Photon Light Energy, The All-Father, or The Divine Father of the Multiverse, the essential point remains: you must first look within and understand yourself to connect with Father. To find Father, walk the middle path.

Unfortunately, many beings today are reluctant to do this because they cannot accept there is an actual Photon Energy-Being in the multiverse who is Father. Instead, they rely on intermediaries and are taught how to connect with them.

Proverbs 4: 11-13 (NIV) "I instruct you in the way of wisdom and lead you along straight paths. When you walk, your steps will not be hampered; when you run, you will not stumble. Hold on to instruction, do not let it go; guard it well, for it is your life."

How Does my Higher Self Connect to the Divine Father?

The image above is that of Eru Ilúvatar. He was considered the single creator of all existence and the only being with the ability to create souls, to the Children of Ainur. They knew Ilúvatar to be all powerful and all knowing – whom we call Divine Father. It was through the Ainur that Ilúvatar gave his laws to these children.

With all the chaos happening in our world, many people are starting to seek deeper self-discovery. It is our higher self that can guide us through these turbulent times and help us connect with our Divine Father.

Our planet is undergoing a reset, meaning that many individuals may struggle to understand what is happening. However, trusting one's gut instincts and exploring our ancient identity can help navigate these challenging moments.

Changing our mindset can significantly improve our emotional well-being; therefore, this might be a perfect opportunity for spiritual introspection as earthly events collide in our realm.

Many people are currently searching for answers from various sources such as social media, local church ministers, and spiritual gurus. People look for guidance from others who feel lost.

2 Timothy 3:1-5 (NIV) states: “But mark this: There will be terrible times in the last days. People will be lovers of themselves, lovers of money, boastful, proud, abusive, disobedient to their parents, ungrateful, unholy, without love, unforgiving, slanderous, without self-control, brutal, not lovers of the good, treacherous, rash, conceited, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God—having a form of godliness but denying its power. Have nothing to do with such people.”

Have you thought that perhaps the Divine Father is trying to catch our attention right now?

Strange and beautiful bright orbs appear twinkling in front of us like stars in the night sky. Unusual events are happening all over this realm, and Father has shared with me that not all of this is based on technology or faction-fighting either. He has said some of these orb sightings is actually his divine energy trying to get our attention and let us know he is watching.

Maybe the Divine Father is trying to wake us up to his awareness? Maybe we should be paying attention to his warnings first over that of political backbiting or religious indoctrination. It could be that our Divine Father is saying to you “What about me,” “Can you see me – do I exist to you?” Do you think it’s actually possible for the Divine Father to get your attention by flashing beautiful orbs in the sky at you? If drones are trying to take orbs down, then you should be asking WHY because if its not world Governments actually doing this to each other, then who else could it be? Non-Terrestrials because the next thing you should ask yourself is, are these beings malevolent or benevolent? Am I being seduced by pretty lights because malevolent beings can also appear as angels of light because they are energy that can change form.

Doesn’t the bible actually speak of strange things occurring?

Luke 21:25-27 (NIV) “There will be signs in the sun, moon and stars. On the earth, nations will be in anguish and perplexity at the roaring and tossing of the sea. People will faint from terror, apprehensive of what is coming on the world, for the heavenly bodies will be shaken. At that time, they will see the Son of Man coming in a cloud with power and great glory.”

Nag Hammadi Scriptures speaks of the following...

End Times: The end times, or the "end of the age," are often depicted as a period of significant upheaval and turmoil, during which the powers of the demiurge are overthrown, allowing souls to return to the "pleroma," or the realm of the divine.

Peter's Writings: This text describes a final judgment in which souls are brought before God, and the bodies of the dead are resurrected. Those who do not possess divinity are cast into the underworld.

Thomas Writings: This text emphasizes the importance of recognizing the true nature of reality, suggesting that the end is actually the beginning, and that the kingdom of God resides within each individual.

James Writings: This text describes the Savior's return as a means to reveal his true nature and empower those who have faith.

Sophia: This text outlines the Savior's mission to reveal the true God and liberate souls from the control of the demiurge and his angels.

Where are the answers supposed to come from?

Perhaps, the answers you seek are within you. When you truly know yourself, peace accompanies knowledge. You may often be your harshest critic, but you can also choose to be your greatest supporter; therefore, positive energy must stem from within.

Believing in and understanding yourself allows you to connect with other energies, such as the Divine Father but remember, introspection is a gradual process; it does not happen overnight.

"Wisdom is knowing I am nothing, Love is knowing I am everything, and between the two my life moves". My guru told me, "Trust me, I tell you: you are Divine. Take it as the absolute truth. Your joy is divine, your suffering is divine too. All comes from God. Remember it always. You are God, your will alone is done." - Nisargadatta Maharaj

Understanding your limits and gaining wisdom requires time. Just as Buddhists have studied for years to find perfect peace, you should be patient with yourself on this journey along the middle path, which we will explore further in this book.

The Divine Father is definitely a part of this journey because when the physician (you) begins to heal, the father also becomes aware of your energy change, which becomes brighter.

Luke 4:23 (NIV) Jesus said to them, "Surely you will quote this proverb to me: 'Physician, heal yourself!' And you will tell me, 'Do here in your hometown what we have heard that you did in Capernaum.'" Our family also recognizes that the Divine Father of the Multiverse sends educators and instructors to help humanity awaken to its true inner power; does not that also make sense?

Buddhist Instruction – The 4 Noble Truths

Some of our ancient family teachers were Buddhist monks, who believed that suffering was essential for personal growth. These were straightforward instructors who did not tolerate procrastination or excuses. Instead, they emphasized the importance of courage and strength, encouraging us to confront issues directly as they arose. Our teachers remained calm and adhered to a traditional approach, occasionally stepping away if they felt that a student was not fully absorbing their teaching.

The Four Noble Truths of Buddhism are as follows.

- Dukkha: The truth of suffering - having dissatisfaction and unhappiness in everything you do.
- Samudāya: The truth of the origin of suffering – when we begin to want more than needed
- Nirodha: The truth of the cessation of suffering – pinpointing when the suffering began
- Magga: The truth of the path to the cessation of suffering, letting go with forgiving yourself as being the first of this healing.

Buddhism is mentioned because its teachings contain many profound principles that resonate with people for a reason. Buddhism encourages us to follow the Middle Path and seek answers from the darkest parts of who we are now and may have been in the past. To believe you may have lived before upon this matrix and opening your mind to reincarnation is imperative.

Some of you may have a hard time realizing the darker parts of who you are. Your DNA is spiralled for a couple of reasons, some of which are spiritually based. We are supposed to learn how to balance both the darker and lighter aspects of who we are – requires a lot of “soul searching first.” The only way you will ever understand who you are is to allow time and wisdom to slowly filtrate back into your soul, while still being mindful of your limits mentally and the thoughts you project on others.

Therefore, if our lives feel chaotic and nothing else seems to make sense anymore, isn't it time to start looking for real answers? Open your mind and heart to other concepts, go within, and finally discover who you are. The trick is letting go of all that “education” school and religious systems taught you to believe.

Ancient Buddhists understood many of the answers that we still seek today. They knew less was more, and study of the self was crucial in order to gain wisdom. Reinfusing our spiritual energies with positive, soul-saving knowledge that even the Bible taught. Later, in this book, we will discuss a letter written by John to the seven churches of Asia in the book of Revelation.

The teachings of Buddha predate those of Jesus, and we believe it is important to further explore this particular letter in Revelation. As our family believes, some Buddhist teachings may have been woven into the Bible as positive sources of information.

Continuing Our Awareness

Thousands of people are becoming aware that some kind of spiritual awakening will occur in 2025 – What do you think? The changes we are experiencing now can lead to both positive and negative reactions that affect our inner happiness if we allow them to. You may not always understand why you feel a certain way on some days, but it is important to remember that our soul has both Light and Dark aspects, as reflected in our DNA – two strands – with these aspects intertwined with each other, so it is no surprise that emotions can sometimes be chaotic.

Galatians 5:17 (NIV) "For the flesh desires what is contrary to the spirit, and the spirit what is contrary to the flesh. They are in conflict with each other, so that you are not to do whatever you want."

The above scripture speaks of the flesh (darker version of ourself) being in conflict with the spirit (the higher self); therefore, the key to balancing both of these aspects have to be the Middle Pathway of the two roads (DNA strands, double helix). Does this not make sense?

The key is learning to control emotions by going within and finding the elusive middle path. Feeling balanced and in control of the mind and soul during these chaotic times will help you maintain a level head. You are in charge of both the light and dark struggles that come from within, and why we recommend following the Middle Path.

During these periods of self-reflection, Father observes us and understands what you are experiencing on a 3rd dimensional level. He recognizes the struggles, good times, and bad, but he also expects us to keep moving forward. The father recently shared with us that interrupting a soul while it is in the process of learning is completely unacceptable. He does not support taking the easy way out but instead commends those who struggle and ultimately overcome adversity.

There will always be distractions that attempt to lure you away from your communication with your father. However, if you are aware of this in advance, you can more effectively navigate the inner journey we must undertake, which includes learning to control our emotions, especially when we feel unbalanced.

According to Adyashanti, "Enlightenment is a destructive process" because it involves shattering our previously held beliefs and identities. This process forces us to confront the illusion of our self-constructed reality, which can be a painful yet transformative experience rather than merely a pursuit of happiness or self-improvement.*

Casting Out Negative Energy – Negative thoughts

Take time to learn proper breathing techniques to reduce stress and eliminate negative thoughts and energy. Our family practices a method called "Casting Out" because the biggest demon you will ever face is the personal one, we create about ourselves. Casting out involves expelling negative energy from the body by taking deep breaths, filling the lungs with air, holding it for a few seconds, and forcefully exhaling to push all that energy out.

Asking Father to help you expel negative energy from your body and home is always a plus. Include Father in everything you act upon in the way of spirituality because his energy protects. For Example: When smudging or cleaning the home, invite our Divine Father to help eliminate negative energy before beginning the process.

In fact, including Father first in any kind of healing work, either on yourself or others, is highly recommended. Being around others who have negative thoughts can also impact the way we feel at times. Learning to Cast out any negative thoughts with our Divine Father's help never goes unnoticed, especially if you approach Father with a childlike innocence. You are a child of the Divine Father asking for energy help.

We suggest including Father into your life as much as possible because while we may not always see negative energy with our physical eyes, others can feel something like a heavy blanket energy or prickly sensations. Therefore, including Father in casting out can expel this energy – the trick is visualizing it leaving your body and believing that Father can help push it all out with you.

The Voices of Chaos Also Exist

Our family has been communicating with various energies for many years and has discussed the nature of these interactions. These unique experiences began when our sons were born more than 27 years ago. We have always emphasized that we serve the Divine Father (The All-Father, The Ancient of Days) and have been sharing this connection long before we started uploading videos on YouTube.

To date, we have recorded hundreds of conversations; yet, many people still see these discussions as merely entertaining and do not consider them real. However, again, what is real? How do you define what is real?

The key is learning to trust your instincts, which simultaneously allows us to connect with the Divine Father. Meditation plays a crucial role in understanding and exploring Buddhist teachings. These teachings emphasize mindfulness and encourage us to pay close attention to each day as this 3D world has been inverted to suit the needs of the darker ones who also share this realm with humanity.

These darker ones no longer serve Father and have said as much when we have spoken with them in the past. They relegated Father to sitting on a bench somewhere, as they went about and rewrote the original teachings on this realm. Teachings that are known as Universal Laws which are there to guide and teach – Father’s laws.

Are the symbols negative, or are they?

It is important to acknowledge that many people believe that symbols can carry negative energy, and this perspective has merit.

However, long before religious and political leaders labelled Swastika as a negative symbol, there was a time in history when it was regarded as a powerful protective emblem.

In ancient culture, this symbol appeared above doorways, was incorporated into tiled floors, and was used in tribal spirituality and Buddhist temples. It was once a revered symbol, but was later distorted and misused through Nazi occultism and the worship of the Vril Society. In fact, nearly every symbol can be viewed as having been inverted from its original meaning.

When ancient teachings refer to a personal symbol, they speak about something that resonates deeply with you—something that holds significant meaning in your life. This could even be a photograph of someone who means a great deal to you, a symbol of strength and hope.

Not all symbols inherently carry a negative meaning; this distortion began long ago in history. Everything that once represented goodness and unity for humanity was transformed into something negative, such as the Dawn Greeter symbol.

Our ancestors would hold their hands in a triangular shape and place this symbol over their crown chakra while receiving insights from the Divine Father at sunrise.

Today, this symbol is often viewed negatively because of these shifts in perception, which have been orchestrated intentionally. As a result, many have lost their connection to the Divine Father of the multiverse, as the symbol now represents negative energy, demonic control over others, and allegiance to a dark lord.

When The Ancients Speak

In 2009, Victoria was prompted by The Ancients to write down a series of symbols that were warnings of a near time coming. In a vision, she could see a wall filled with symbols and inscriptions. As Victoria looked upon each symbol on the wall, she wrote them on this chart. It took her many years to figure out all the symbols, but she now believes that this chart foretold the future of events that would come to pass upon this realm and that's exactly what's occurring now on this 3D realm.

ANCIENT SCRIPT 2009

Luke 8:17-18 (NIV) "For there is nothing hidden that will not be disclosed, and nothing concealed that will not be known or brought out into the open. Therefore, consider carefully how you listen. Whoever has will be given more; whoever does not have, even what they think they have will be taken from them."

Speaking An Ancient Tongue

By Airadeel

When I first began to speak the ancient language, I was three years old and most adults around me, just assumed I was just speaking baby gibberish.

Over the years I have come to learn, the language I speak has been a combination of tribal, ancient Egyptian, Sumerian, mathematics, and symbols.

Our friend, Chattel (a breakaway Zeta Grey), can understand every word I speak and has translated the language to other beings. He has also explained how many different references there are in this ancient language and how this works from his understanding of the provided video link.

Source: <https://youtu.be/hoVMeCEtTik>. At 17:00 in the video, Chattel and I speak together about the Ancient Language—he explains how it works from his knowledge base. Chattel says that multiple minds or avatars are required to unlock this language. Past life alts such as Karshdee and others come forward when needed, because they also carry photon light energy, directly connected to your DNA. These avatar energies are you, and you are them – they are all connected.

While I may not understand all the words I speak, I understand the meaning and intent behind the words. I am very aware of the responsibility of using these words, so I only do it, with our Divine Father in mind, so as not to cause any negativity or harm to anyone.

Bill Donahue (Hidden Meanings) also discusses why beings upon this realm speak in tongues and his understanding does not include the clergy or any religion whatsoever. Bill calls it connecting to Photon Light Energy - the video link provided makes for a very interesting discussion, especially the way Bill describes it. Video link: <https://youtu.be/jAp8lFCiUHK>

It can sometimes be strange to speak a language that many beings on Earth once spoke freely. There have been other dimensional ones who also came forward and told me that they once taught me how to speak this language in a past life and from another time in this realm. In the video link below, you can hear me speak in the ancient tongue.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=oKRx4XoEOgY>

I have known about the existence of an energy-changing shape and form since I was three years old. Many of you might also be surprised to know just how many children can see and hear other energies, because they usually have no fear of other energy sources, so children accept it as normal. Of course, there are other darker energies that can also create a fear of feeding off children's energy, and I know about these beings, too. I used to watch many beings converse with me as a small child in the same way I used to watch beings converse with our sons Hunter and Ryan when they were small.

Our dimensional family has been around since I was small, so for me, conversing with other energy forms is normal for this family. Many of these beings also knew my soul's name and have been calling me by it for many years. Airadeel is my ancient name and who I chose to be now.

The name Airadeel means amazing star, and because my dimensional family knew me on other timelines – other realms—they also knew the name Airadeel. When Mike and I wrote the book Catch Falling Stars, the title alone said everything. Many of you were also stars in the universe, who fell from grace and came here on Earth Terra to learn. Alternatively, you may have been assigned here at some point, with or without understanding what is happening at times. The fact is that many of the YOU ARE ALL DIMENSIONAL STARS TOO and some of you also fell from grace in the process of learning about this realm. For we are all stars in the universe...

I personally believe that if humanity understood just how powerful their soul names were, then everyone would be using them to rebalance the energies across this 3D realm. Discovering your soul's name comes from going within and connecting your higher self. . . after all, that is, your original name.

If you are beginning to understand how these dimensions work, then you should also know that anything is possible, including our dimensional families reaching out with love and comforting us. For this process to happen, your mind needs to be free of political and religious indoctrination. Thinking outside the box is highly advised when listening to one of our family discussions.

Chusi speaks about how the universe is created. This was recorded in 2023.

This video link concerns Gatheon speaking about his relationship with Airadeel:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=p00rG6h49co>

We are all stars in the Universe.
Elemental and beautiful

Sometimes we fall from grace,
Often there is no-one to catch us.

My hope is that Catch Falling Stars cradles you from falling,
Heals you and places you back in the cosmos,

For you always have been and
Now shall be again, a shining star.

Section 3

The Windfathers

The Windfathers are some of the most beautiful and amazing beings our family has been communicating with for many years. So much wisdom has been shared with us on how to live properly, giving thanks to The Great Creator for all that is and never forgetting who we are.

The Windfathers, like Buddhists, believe in walking the middle path. They believe the only way to find completion from within, is to understand everything that energetically moves around us. We were taught the energy that flows from our great earth mother and into us, is an amazing gift, therefore, we should always respect her rules.

Below is a recording of my family speaking from the heart about the beginnings of this reality: they speak of Grandmother Yvanna (Victoria calls her Ya-Ya). They speak in this video of messages from the Star People to the Shoshone, as The Windfathers introduce themselves to us in the video. Five years later, their voices remained peaceful and filled with wisdom. These are some of the beings we call our family.

They Speak for The Windfathers

Channeling from Airadeel

The channeling session we provide in this section of the book comes from Grandfather Medicine Man, Chief Longbow and a couple of other elder chieftains. I drew some images of what I perceived at the time and placed these sketches throughout these pages. I don't claim to be a good sketch artist by any means but you get the point of the drawings.

These sessions sometimes involve many voices who spoke in unison. Grandfather medicine healer is one among The Windfathers, who is deeply loved by our Divine Father, who also speaks often with him. The Windfathers are tribal beings who have been in contact with our family for 20 years, and Grandfather Medicine Man was the first of many tribal beings (spirits) to speak with us.

Grandfather Medicine Man has asked us to directly link the below conversation he had with Victoria, over 6 years ago. He speaks about the events taking place on Turtle Island now
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qDFmr_PdViE

At first, channeling The Windfathers was hard on Mike because suddenly, he could now speak in tribal tongues complete with historical memories he had never imagined. The Windfathers chose to speak through Michael because he did not want to be their channel, mainly because he was not of tribal descent. The Windfathers saw Michael as being the perfect one to speak their words, as his honesty and humility shone through the most. After a few more conversations with The Windfathers, Mike agreed to channel them.

Over the years of communication, there was a lot of love and respect shared between Mike and The Windfathers. He gave them free reign to come and go as they pleased because he trusted these beings that much. Our family loves The Windfathers deeply because we have found them to be some of the most honest beings we have encountered.

When I first began communicating with The Windfathers, it wasn't the pleasant experience I assumed it would be. Grandfather Medicine Man didn't want to speak to me because he said I stunk. He was referring to my soul that stunk, so he did not want to communicate until I had done introspective work on myself first.

Many ancient beings know instinctively if or when they will communicate with humans, so sometimes they will put a toe in water to see if you are ready to receive them. If they feel you are open to learning, then usually that's when the teacher arrives.

The following information comes from Grandfather Medicine man...

I am known as Grandfather Medicine Man to this family and I have lived many lives upon this realm you call Earth. Some of my most rewarding lives were tribal so I choose to speak in this form to you now. We followed the teachings of our Great Grandfather in the sky and we also lived by the code of our great Earth mother. We took only what we needed to exist and gave thanks to the great spirit in return for our families and good health.

We The Windfathers have asked Airadeel not to change any of the words written below but to deliver them as she hears them spoken to her. We do not want our words corrected by A.I. as the full understanding of what we speak to you now, will be lost in a translation without light energy. We are not A.I we are beings of great light who were once you.

These are our words below.

"There were many days when our people struggled to maintain our will to go on. We remember when the white man's religion came to Turtle Island. Many of the Chieftains were warned by their Shaman about these changes coming. Many of us were in the way of what is now deemed progress but without the tribal earth guardians looking after the sacred places and caring for our Earth Mother, many of you would not be here today.

Forked tongues and flashing eyes were seen from men who tried to convince us they came to help, but we did not need anything from them. Our ancestors taught us all that was necessary and had walked upon this land long before the soldiers and settlers came.

Some of the strangers came from the south with metal helmets, chest armor and spoke a language we did not understand. We knew of stories travellers had spoken of our brothers and sisters who lived in the jungle. Some of our people fled the ancestors' homelands when we heard the ones with great ships wearing metal were coming.

They desecrated our most sacred places and demanded we change in the name of their Christ. They used a black book to control us into believing their God. We did not want to read from their black book, when we had the wind to teach us.

We are the caretakers of our Great Mother – we love and respect her ways. For much of our lives we tried to live in peace with all that Great Grandfather Creator gave to us. We did not understand how the people of the New World could not see what we did. The land was everything to us and we honored the creatures who lived around us.

We were shunned and laughed at because we spoke to beings from the stars; who taught us many good things. We learned much from the star ancestors and their instruction was all we needed.

The settlers came with the black book, and many wanted us to become like them. We were happy living in harmony with the Great Spirits laws – why did we need their teachings? When we rejected the black book, they stole our children from us and forced them to learn the book – we had no say – our children were taught not to speak in their tribal tongue or to pay attention to the ways of our ancestors anymore.

We The Windfathers say to you, it was the Black Book (bible) and some of its teachings that took away the ancestors, that took away the teachings of Great Grandfather, that took away the respect for our Great Mother, and took some of your spirit away too.

We did not want to learn from this book, for many of us saw how these men of the New World treated their kin, when they did not want to read from the black book either.

The Buffalo

The Buffalo is sacred to us; he is our brother. Many now eat his flesh, but they did not earn the right to do so. Hunting Buffalo was considered a sacred gift by our ancestors. We do not take lightly the spirit and our connection to all that is. First, we must prepare for the hunt. We sing songs and dance around the flame while we asked the grandfather in the sky for blessings to be upon the hunt.

We taught our young hunters, our spirit brother is the buffalo and he gives up his flesh, so that we could live in his place; to eat and grow strong, so we can become one with our brother.

We hunted to survive; to have garments, to stay warm - we used everything from our brother, including his bones. We taught our children to love Grandfather Sky and respect our great mother for without them, we do not exist. We gave thanks again to the Great Grandfather after the hunt, for bringing the buffalo and feeding our tribe. We have long been the caretakers of our great mother and we honor the animal spirits that also reside upon her.

When the traders came with their wagons we watched in horror as our brother the buffalo, was hunted and slaughtered. Traders took the fur of our brother but left his flesh to rot. There was no thanks given to Great Grandfather in the sky for the meat and pelt. No respect given as we saw the extinction of our brother. We knew if the buffalo suffered, our lives would also decrease because we are all connected. The cold winter months ahead of the hunt, would be harsh and food would become scarce for our tribes.

We lost many members of our family to progress, but we do not hold malice in our hearts for the past but rather we teach you these stories so you do not forget what was done to the original peoples of Turtle Island.

The Prophecies

The Great Grandfather spirit does not want the animals gone, he does not want to see the water poisoned, he does not want to see the great mother sick from disease and he does not want to see his children fighting.

Great Grandfather gave us hands to build but not to destroy. He gave us minds to think but not to control. He gave us wisdom but not to take over everything.

We tried to warn many times about the future our ancestors saw coming if you did not turn away from the destruction of our great mother.

"Many will appear to have lost their souls in these final days. So intense will the nature of the changes be that those who are weak in spiritual awareness will go insane, for we are nothing without spirit. They will disappear, for they are just hollow vessels for anything to use."

We see all the energy at this time, you are not alone for there are many with you. Some unseen and some wear clothing. The under dwellers live among you now in suits and ties, they changed your world, we know of them. They dwell in the darker caverns and hide in shadows; they whisper to the spirit and lie.

Your world stands on the precipice and the time of prophecy has begun again when Poganghoya the guardian of the north pole and Palongawhoya the guardian of the south pole return.

The time of the brothers has come again and we now ask which council fire do you sit around? Once again, it is time to be forged in the fires of eternity. Be brave, walk together in love with the Great Grandfather sky spirit." – Grandfather Medicine Man (elder chieftain of The Windfathers)

Mní Wičhóni By Chief Longbow

In the Lakota Tradition, it is known that water is life. This is not a debate. This is not about a scientific discourse.

“Mní wičhóni,” or “Water is life,” is also a return to the fathers of old and their thinking.

I have recently heard the words spoken again, with protesters in America. With those who have stood up to add their voices to the chorus of many who are beginning to realize that without clean water, and respect for it, our people and many others will continue to suffer.

“Mní wičhóni” became the anthem of the long struggle for the Dakota access Pipeline in North Dakota.

The chant grew, uttered by thousands who have spoken their words. One voice emerges when brothers drum and it is at this time we offer our prayers to the great father for the blessings of clean water.

The fundamental question becomes do we as people, all people, have rights to the water? Is water to be considered sacred and does the water carry consciousness?

Does only government dictate how we should use water? Can the government dictate how you must use water if there is no consideration given to its necessity for life?

As a Native American scholar, a tribal person, whose roots and bloodline date back to Sitting Bull, I ask a new generation of those who love the water, who love the green and the fish who swim with the great father's do you hear the call? It is everywhere but only some of us can hear it.

"Mní wičhóni"- Water is life

My people view water as more than life; we see it also as sacred. The great plains of North America is our home and has been home of my people for generations. We value water as life because of what it does and what it is and what it can and will become.

Water was scarce in the Great Plains.

It was this scarcity that created greed for watershed rights. The White man sold land and especially water rights. By doing so the precedent was set that everything we need for life can be sold.

Yet whose rights are we really selling and buying?

Water is essential for life. Water holds many things and we also believe that water has its own spirit of the ages. We believe that water not only supports life but can create change in us, can cause spirituality to bloom and even hold secrets that can only be shared by those who walk the path of life.

If you can for a moment suspend your disbelief, your years of learning and think with an open mind listen and tell me what you think.

If water is necessary for life, if water cleanses, cures and heals, why do we pollute it? Why do we not respect it?

For thousands of years Native American tribes across the Great Plains learned how to live with limited water resources. Our faith taught us how to do so and we were in harmony with nature.

Tribal elders sang songs around fires that taught the need for conservation and reverence of the land and water. We would drum in the evenings and the mornings charging the water with life and positive energy.

It worked. Life sprang up around tributaries and rivers. Lakes became more abundant with fish and the animals of the plains benefitted.

The water world is seen as a conduit, a sacred connection to the spiritual. The earth, sky and land and water each touch us in mystical ways that resonate with our humanity.

If you are removed from these things, you become spiritually barren; adrift in the lies of modern society.

I say this to you because you, of so few people heart the call of the water, of green things and of life that swims in the flowing ponds you create.

The divine water beings call to your heart and this is the beginning of love of the world. I urge you to pass on what you are learning with your connection with love of the water.

They will not always listen to me; I am too spiritual. But they will listen to you when you say water has consciousness. Water contains conduits to other realms and that water is life.

The great mother earth has her private heart and it flows like blood; this blood is water. She calls to you, my friend. They will not listen to me but you just might. If you love life and water and the divine beings that touch its surface, take this tale to others around you.

Tell them of “aquaponics”. Tell them how scientific and orderly it is. Tell them it is perfect for society but lead them to the love of flowing water and the great spirit will do the rest.

With the love of the land in your hearts, water will find you.
With the understanding of the flowing words, water will find you.
With head held strong, water will revive you.” - Chief Longbow

The Ancient Shoshone Speak

Channelled By Michael

The deep past is a way for us to unlock knowledge that has been long forgotten even by most tribes. Gazing back through the prism of the older spirits, we are told that The Lakota, Dakota and Nakota nations have long been involved deeply in the land, the people and as nations, were among the greatest of and first of the tribal people to exist in the northern Americas.

Their descendants are worthy of all respect. Why?

According to The Windfathers, The great Diaspora causing the expansion of the former people called The Shoshoni, heralded the rise of all tribes of the north, including the former mentioned nations.

Photograph Taken By State Historical Society Of North Dakota in 1931

Image Source: <https://www.pinterest.com/ndhistory/>

It is important for us to first pay homage and deep respect to these amazing peoples. Their ways are sacred to them and many of us who wish to learn what the truth is must do so with the utmost care to deeply respect the spiritual ways of the ancestors and tribal teachings.

Remember that as these nations stand now, many are openly hostile to the encroachment of modern man and the use of “New Age” and phony Shamanistic practices, which are viewed as little more than people trying to peddle pseudo spirituality and watered-down teachings from its rightful place among the peoples of these great nations.

Victoria and I were initially horrified that we were commanded to deliver these messages as we are NOT tribal people (except in our hearts) nor did we believe that we have any right to profess anything that is native and tribal or dare to speak on behalf of the great nations as they exist today.

Yet what we speak of is a mixture of ancient teachings, history of the beginnings of man expressed by the spirits that was the basis of long forgotten teachings.

We fully honor the tribal people of today.

We do NOT teach ANY Native shamanism as it is NOT our place to ever do so. Only tribal elders have the power to determine who among their people should speak about such matters. What Victoria had learned over many years of instruction came directly from The Windfathers. She worked on her understanding and finally earned the title 'Shoshone Woman' from the Elder Chieftains of The Windfathers. Victoria had seen the hawk as her spiritual animal guide many years before, which The Windfathers also confirmed to her. Hawks are regarded as messengers of the spiritual realm, along with being intuitive and strong.

The Ancient Shaman were powerful beings the tribes relied on for communication from the spiritual or 4th dimensional realm. Shaman could rouse the tribe into frenzy when necessary because they were seen as the heartbeat of the people.

Deep within the Black Hills, and surrounding lands, many great stories were told around counsel fires. Some were the Shoshone people who spoke of these legends.

These magnificent tribal peoples of the Americas today, their culture is all just an echo of a far greater "tribe" that passed its legends down from whispered hushed whispers around the campfires of old.

The Story

"Filled with shadows and light, in the woods, it walked. It was tall, like unto a man with large almond shaped dark orbs. They, the eyes were filled with stars and as deep as any galaxy. Our people wept from the terrible knowledge and glory they gave to us."

—Three feathers, Witness At The Dawn Of Humanity.

On January 21st, 2019 Three Feathers spoke of his walk with the STAR people, the ancients who watched over the Shoshone as children. The Star people would live with us for a time and tell us stories of other places far away. We were like wide eyed children listening to their stories of the outside worlds.

They bought seeds and plants for the vegetation to grow. They taught us how to plant and harvest food off our great mother. They gave us treetops to live in away from the predators of the night. We sang together in a strong voice to the Star People who came back to us every 100 hundred years to check on our grandchildren.

Many times, the STAR people returned, and taught each new generation with guidance, words of wisdom and clarity about the stars. They also carried the genetic seed that was transformed to the people. The voices of The Ancients spoken and reverberated upon this realm were originally recorded in 2019. Will you listen to them again in 2025, click on the link below.

The Shoshone – The Early Years

“Like unto gods and Goddesses were they. I remember the day of the great race; there was never one who could best the Shoshone Wacha at the conjuring and the great run.

Like a zephyr wind they came and darkness swiftly followed.” –Three feathers, Witness at The Dawn of Humanity.

Long before most recorded words, the Shoshone walked the Americas. Some of them travelled to the Great Plains. Others, near areas we now know as North and South Dakotas and the Black Hills.

This mass of humanity was said to have been the predecessors for all of the American tribes but were all one at this time. Was this true?

Of course, our historical records only record the Hopi speaking with the STAR people. Yet this was much later in time.

It had always been spoken first of the Shoshone, yet there was more to the story, much more.

The First Revelation of the STAR People

“For those who have no facial hair shall be the future of the chosen of all of humanity. The bearded ones shall follow and no longer rule but will be given elder status when the sun returns the great father of the sky.”

It is here at the dawn of humanity that we first learn of Three Feathers, said to be greatest of all chieftains of the old age.

“We have been placed here, on the back of a great turtle that swims the cosmos, a great being, our father and mother earth.”

-Three Feathers spoke of those who would listen to his words:

Yet next came the strangest channeling because Three Feathers told us his first encounter with the STAR people was the White Buffalo Calf Woman: “I recall the great giver of the woman who came. It was an early evening in the spring when I first saw her beautiful light. The river began to form a mist near the reeds. A slight breeze came over the water and in the middle of the mist a bright light appeared where Three Feathers was sitting.”

Several of the men escorted their women and children to the river as their custom and watchful eye over the people. Three Feathers was stunned to silence as he saw the apparition in white appear.

In the mists was formed that shape of a female, beautiful but also wise, elderly but also eternally young, her eyes shone with a bright light for a moment and as she coalesced, became more solid. Next to her was a buffalo calf, white in visage and strong as it slowly morphed into a full-grown Buffalo as she stroked its fur.

First Comes The Earth

"No man is as wise as Mother Earth. She has witnessed every human day, every human struggle, every human pain, and every human joy." -Anasazi

As the apparition formed, the Shoshone people stood transfixed, stunned but also glad. She had returned from the deep, she said and brought back the words of the STAR people.

The mighty buffalo now standing to the side of the woman gazed with intelligent eyes to the people by the river. She spoke:

"The waters wash you clean and prepare you for the journey ahead. I must speak with the elders as I have important tidings."

The Shoshoni people knew that the Calf Woman brought knowledge. Sometimes the tidings were not always wanted and fear was always part of her appearance, fear of what was to come.

The Story of The Transformation of The Calf

"It was long ago when the great Elohim walked the earth that I was formed. I and my lifecycle were attuned with the footfalls of the wise, the STAR people brought small gifts to the elders.

I was given this calf, frail and sickly, on spindly legs until I could nurse it back to health, my own was in question."

It was here that she bowed her head in sadness and tears welled in her eyes:

"For not all my tidings are good. There is a darkness coming that you must prepare." The CALF Woman said as her voice grew softer.

Law Of Healing is the First Law Given

"We must tend the sick and make them strong again. From this law we regain our stewardship of the land. In doing so the elements and spirits of the lands will be well pleased when all sacred creatures are revered." Said the CALF woman.

"Until the calf transforms to healthy adulthood, nothing else matters. You must learn this first great teaching and then the spirits of the land will bless you and your kin."

The Shoshone were deeply immersed in the first teaching. Their healing practices are deeply intertwined with their spiritual beliefs, which emphasize the concept of supernatural power, known as "boha." This power is often acquired through vision quests and dreams.

Medicinal Plants: Oral histories and practices show an extensive use of medicinal plants among the Shoshone. For example, trumpet phlox is utilized to treat specific ailments, such as gonorrhoea, whereas sagebrush was used for allergic conditions and breathing problems.

Ceremonies and Rituals: Ceremonies and rituals are vital in the healing process of Shoshone traditions. One notable practice involves washing babies with water brought by Coyote, a prominent figure in Shoshone mythology. Please read part of the Coyote Legend below

Oral History and Legacy: The Shoshone's oral history, passed down through generations, describes a "disease-free" society. This emphasizes the importance of health habits intertwined with spiritual customs, which involve keeping the body cleansed of impurities through specific diets and practices. Sweat lodge not only allows for vision quests but its also seen as a way to remove impurities from the skin.

Understanding Our Body: The Shoshone's knowledge of medicinal plants and their applications reflects a sophisticated understanding of body functions and the balance with nature. Sadly, this knowledge has diminished over time, although there are still those, who actively seek out wild plants like sage, sweetgrass and white oak for cleansing and meditational purposes.

Vision Quests: Vision quests and dreams are essential in acquiring supernatural power (boha), which is often applied for healing purposes. The people believe in vision quests just as many religious folks today, still believe in the power of prayer.

The healing of each other was of prime importance because without the tribe, there was no future. If the elderly were sick, we carried them on stretchers or stopped to rest for a while until the elders of our tribe recovered. Our elders were the ones who carried the stories of our ancestors. They taught our children how to respect the Great Earth Mother who gave us all that was. Our ancestral knowledge about the great mother, allowed us to live accordingly with her ways and in return she blessed us with warmth, health, good food and new life.

According To Shoshone Legend

the Coyote was responsible for their creation.

The reference of washing babies with the water brought forth from the Coyote is as follows:

When the evening approached, the old woman told her daughter to go and lie down beside Coyote. The girl obeyed her mother, while Coyote stepped outside to retrieve his tools, which he had not brought into the shelter (wikiup).

After lying down and embracing the girl, she said, "There is something wrong with my teeth."

The old woman misunderstood what her daughter said and replied, "Keep it there." The Coyote then approached the old mother in the same manner, and broke off all her teeth as he did with her daughter.

The mother and daughter instructed Coyote to go outside and fetch water from a distant source, as was their custom because the water was considered pure. However, Coyote was afraid of going too far away and instead brought back water from a nearby source. When he returned, the old woman scolded him, saying that he didn't bring back the pure water and sent him out again to go and retrieve it.

As soon as the Coyote left the shelter, many babies began tumbling out of the women's wombs. The women took the water that Coyote had first brought and used it to wash the babies. By doing this, the women created all the different tribes, except for the Shoshone, from which those babies had been left lying to one side.

When Coyote returned, the women told him, "We have left these babies for you to wash." So, Coyote washed the Shoshone babies with the pure water and said to them, "You are my children. I am going to stay with you."

If Coyote had washed all the babies, the world would be filled only with Shoshone, but the women had washed most of the babies from Coyotes original water and not the holy water he was sent out for. This is why the other tribes always tried to fight with the Shoshone.

The Coyote had told his children to always be brave and to never fear the other tribes.

Law Of Stewardship of the Lands

It could be said of Three Feathers that his guidance was what held the tribe together in the early years after she left. As time began to advance, the CALF woman would come and help tend the very sick.

She often would not speak to others but hum softly to herself as she worked with ancient herbs, fluids and tinctures.

One bright morning, the CALF woman arose and walked among the Shoshoni, speaking to the children mostly. Some of the elders she would nod to and others she would ignore. She only spoke these words once but I heard them and remembered for you here:

“Rise up children of the West and sing the song of renewal. You have at last earned stewardship of all these lands, as the spirits are well pleased. Yet the guardianship will not be easy. No. No. It will be difficult.” She sung in the ancient tongue until the words were no more.

The CALF woman now grew silent, even despondent. Some of the women now grew mistrustful after this and told their children and their men to stay away from the CALF woman.

In the morning after three days, she was gone and so was the white buffalo. Her message was delivered to the Shoshone and the elders gathered to recount the tale every year. Three Feathers recounted what was learned:

“She brought the Shoshone the great understanding of the first law, the law of healing. Once that law was understood then we won our stewardship of the land. Yet we will still miss her other teachings.” –Three Feathers at the dawn of humanity.

The White Buffalo Calf Woman Speaks Again

Three Feathers was now much older, a wizened man of long years. He kept the first and greatest law in service to his tribe and the land. He also tended the animals and in those days the people could speak with the birds and even the heard animals of the forest.

Sometimes, the connection was strong and the link between the land and the people was eternal and beautiful, a gift given forever to all of their children.

As Three Feathers walked the great forests those days, the giants were busy tending the eternity trees and her kin. It was in the shadow of the great branches she appeared again, this time appearing younger with an aged white buffalo.

She spoke to me and quickly placed a tablet of stone on the ground at her feet:

"These are my words, and they are for you and all of my kin as I call you. Remember these words so that someday all peoples will rejoice:

First comes the healing of the sick and the dying,
For the sake of all peoples should next be bound,
In love of the very earth and it's offspring.

Next you shall rise up and speak the truth,
To all men who speak strange words.
Teach them to love the spirits and other men.
Teach them to sing to the great father in the morning.

For the LAW shall be placed again in their hearts,
Of the goodness of all men and women who will depend,
That death is withheld and is a dream,
But only if they believe and hold council
With the great father in the sky.

I will return again to see when this great task is done." -Three Feathers at The Dawn of Humanity

7 Sacred Grandfather Teachings

One of the first things The Windfathers taught our family was the seven sacred teachings of the Great Grandfather spirit in the sky. For those who do not know who that is, many of the tribal grandfathers refer to the Divine Father, The Great Creator of the Multiverse, and believe us when we say, the ancestors love Father with a passion, so there is no question about who they serve.

Even though The Windfathers are no longer flesh upon this 3D realm, their energy is more powerful and beautiful than ever before, and why they asked us to include the Seven Sacred Teachings from Great Grandfather.

1: Humility - Humility is epitomized by the wolf, a creature that dedicates its existence to its pack, with the ultimate disgrace being to become an outcast. Humility entails recognizing one's status as a vital component of creation.

It is essential to conduct oneself selflessly rather than selfishly, or as others may know it to be service to self or service to others. One must honor their role, take pride in their community, and acknowledge the accomplishments of others. It is imperative to avoid arrogance and excessive self-importance. Strive for balance within oneself and in relation to all living entities.

2: Bravery - Bravery is symbolized by the bear, a creature known for its formidable strength and protective instincts. The mother bears exemplify courage as she confronts the danger of safeguarding her cubs, teaching us the essence of facing our fears head-on. This animal embodies the importance of a balanced life where rest, survival, and play coexist harmoniously.

To approach life's challenges with courage is to grasp the meaning of bravery. It encourages us to tap into our inner strengths, empowering us to tackle adversity while remaining true to ourselves. Stand firm for your beliefs and advocate for what is just for your community, family, and personal integrity.

Make choices that positively impact your life, coupled with unwavering convictions in your decisions. Embrace your fears; doing so allows you to live fully and authentically.

3: Honesty - Honesty is represented by the raven and the sabe, both of which are revered for their self-awareness and authenticity. The sabe was a giant who was placed among the tribal people to remind them of their commitment to following the Divine Fathers' laws.

Tribal wisdom urges us to embrace our true selves rather than conform to external expectations. An honest person walks with an upright posture and clear conscience, reminiscent of Kitchi-Sabe, a figure reflecting integrity and strength.

Similarly, a raven symbolizes self-acceptance, using unique gifts to navigate life. Rather than aspiring to others' attributes—power, speed, or beauty—the raven thrives by utilizing their own strengths. This principle is based on honoring individuality and living a life grounded in integrity is the foundation of honesty.

Acknowledge your authentic self and cherish the unique gifts bestowed on you. We always strive for transparency with others in how we think and interact with each other.

4: Wisdom - The beaver is a symbol of wisdom, demonstrating a remarkable ability to use its natural talents effectively for survival. This industrious animal crafts its environment, building dams, and lodges in an eco-friendly and sustainable manner, ultimately benefiting its family and ecosystem.

To cherish knowledge means appreciating the wisdom gained through experience and observation. Embrace your natural abilities and align your life with them, recognizing that wisdom involves respecting your differences and those of others. Approach life with kindness and inclusivity, continually observing the world around you.

Cultivate clarity by listening with intent and maintaining a sound mind. Respect your limitations and those of your environment and remain open to learning and growing through the application of your wisdom.

5: Truth - Truth is represented by the turtle, a steadfast creature that has existed since Earth's creation and carries profound life teachings on its back. The turtle embodies patience and perseverance, moving through life at a deliberate and thoughtful pace, recognizing that both the journey and the destination hold significant value.

Understanding truth involves grasping these lessons and applying them to daily life. Cultivate faith in your teachings and learn to trust the journey of going within, one that we all must take to reach our Divine Father.

Approach every interaction with honor and sincerity, ensuring that your actions align with your words. Acknowledges your place in the intricate web of life and walks your path with authenticity. Strive to be true to yourself and maintain respect for all living beings around you.

6: Respect: Respect is symbolized by the buffalo, a majestic creature that embodies selflessness and generosity. The buffalo contributes to every part of itself to sustain human life, not out of inferiority but out of a deep respect for the interconnectedness of all life.

To honor, all creation is to embody respect. Live by your principles in a manner that promotes harmony among all beings. Practice mindful consumption, use resources wisely, and maintain the balance of nature. Share your abundance generously, offering what you do not need to do to those who may benefit. Treat others how you wish to be treated, ensuring that your actions do not inflict harm on yourself or those around you.

7: Love – Love is symbolized by the eagle and characterized by its strength and soaring abilities. The eagle can fly at great heights, drawing closer to the creator, while possessing a remarkable vision to perceive life's diverse realities from afar.

The eagle's teaching emphasizes that love is foundational to all other teachings; consequently, an eagle feather is regarded as the highest honor and sacred gift. To understand love is an experience of inner peace.

By viewing one's inner self through the wisdom of all teachings, one opens the door to authentic self-love. This journey will lead to a harmonious existence with yourself, the balance of life, and with the Divine Creator.

Chief Crazy Horse

The Windfathers asked us to create a section about Chief Crazy Horse and speak about what we know of him.

Victoria never knew who Chief Crazy Horse was until we read about him in a book from another chieftain in South Dakota: We were asked once, if we knew does Great Grandfather have Crazy Horse sit around him at the council fire now? The answer is yes because our Divine Father LOVES ALL OF HIS CHILDREN, regardless of the color of their skin or beliefs.

Chief Crazy Horse is now the Elder Chieftain of all the other Windfathers' spirits-beings we communicate with. He has only visited us once that we can remember, but sometimes we see him in other realms sitting around their council fire – and in a dimensional place The Windfathers call home. The great hunting plains spoken of in ancestral stories and passed down from one generation to the other is one of the destinies The Windfathers call home.

Chief Crazy Horse communicates directly with the Divine Father and has given a council concerning the treatment of the Great Mother and her children who still remain upon this realm. Our Great Father is aware of all and he still has great respect and love for many of tribal people today.

The Ancient Tribes were blessed with good genetics from the Star people, as tribal genetics were always distinct and one of the reasons why these ancestors did not have facial hair, like many ancient Asian tribes.

Chief Crazy Horse was one of the children in direct communication with the Divine Father when he lived in this realm. "I salute the light within your eyes where the whole universe dwells. For when you are at that center within you and I am in that place within me, we shall be as one." - Chief Crazy Horse. In other words, go within first to find the universe and its connection to all that is.

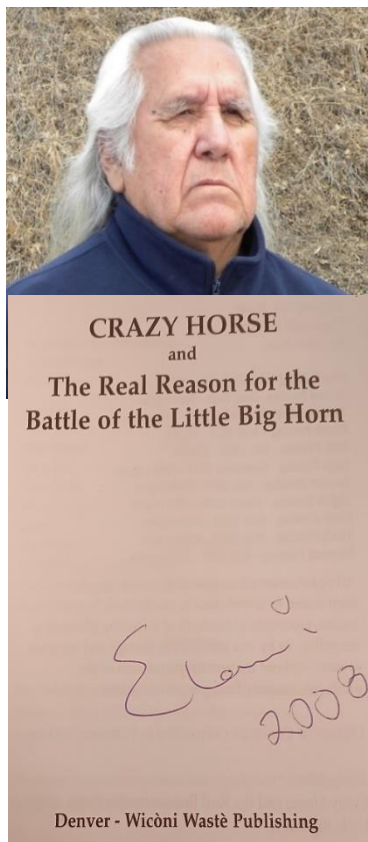

Many years ago, great light energy came to us and spoke directly to Michael in the early evening hours. Victoria couldn't understand everything that was being said because he spoke in his tribal tongue. Because Mike channeled The Windfathers, he understood the conversation between him and Chief Crazy Horse. Mike said it was the strangest and one of the most amazing things, he had experienced because he understood every word Crazy Horse said to him, yet Mike had never studied to speak any tribal tongue before.

However, we can describe what we saw as a great and powerful looking being of light dressed in a white skin tunic, with multicolored stones sewn in a spiral pattern on the chest area of the tunic. His pants were also covered with tiny fragments of stones on the sides, and his moccasins were glowed with a blue flame.

This being was very bright and shone as bright as the sun, it was almost hard to look at him with our 3rd eye. He also wore an amazing headdress of eagle and hawk feathers that almost touched the ground as he moved, and his staff emitted both white and blue fires that swirled together to create one flame. His voice was strong and powerful and we could feel the echoes of another timeline, but there was also kindness in his spirit. Before this powerful being left, he turned toward Victoria and said something to her in the ancient tongue, which she understood this time.

“Continue to walk in light and love with our Great Creator Airadeel,” . . . then he was gone. Mike’s body was still trembling from all that powerful energy around him, so The Windfathers placed him into a peaceful dream state before they exited. We know this must sound like a fictional novel to many, but what we speak about are truthful events that have transpired in our communication with the energies we connect with.

To learn more about Chief Crazy Horse we suggest reading this book about Crazy Horse by Dr. A. Ross, Ehanamani.

<https://www.amazon.com/Crazy-Horse-Reason-Battle-Little/dp/0962197785>

Victoria spoke to Dr. A. Ross, Ehanamani in 2008 who asked her to come to South Dakota and visit with him at some point because he wanted Victoria and Mike to meet some of the other tribal elders he knew. Ehanamani wanted to show the other elders The Windfather spirits during a lodge ceremony he wanted to plan.

Back in 2008, the Colorado Convention Center in Denver had a big spiritual convention. Ehanamani had a table near the cafeteria at back of the building where he was displaying his books.

Victoria went to get something to eat with Mike when Ehanamani noticed them and waved for them to come over to his table. At the time, Victoria had no idea who he was nor did she know whether the elderly man was pointing at her or someone else, but she walked to the table where Ehanamani was anyway to ask him if he was pointing at her.

He shook his head with a yes and continued motioning for her to come over. Once at the table, Ehanamani immediately asked Victoria where she came from. She answered with “Australia’.

He responded with “Australia is not where you come from and Victoria is not your name. Who are you? You looked like an angel when you walked toward me and who are all your fathers standing around you because some of them look like my fathers, too. I see many different fathers with you.”

Totally surprised at his comment about The Windfathers Victoria said to Ehanamani “Oh you can see them too? Yes, we have many fathers who walk with us. I am happy to hear that you can see them. Again, Ehanamani asks her “Where are you from? Did you come from the stars?”

“I am Victoria and was born and raised in Australia. I come from the Southern Hemisphere.” That’s when he asked her to come to South Dakota to meet some of the other elders in the tribe. He then took Victoria’s hand, gave her a blessing, and thanked her for coming to his table. If you have not heard about this conversation before, the Grandfather Medicine Man speaks of it on this link. https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qDFmr_PdViE

As Victoria walked away from the table, two women from the neighboring Wiccan booth came up her and asked, “What did you do, in order for Ehanamani to speak with you? Do you know who he is? We have been trying to communicate with him all day, but he won’t speak to us. He will not even sign the books we purchased from him.”

Victoria and The Spirit Family. There is a face in front of hers. It’s Gatheon.

Victoria answered with “I actually didn’t know who he was until today but he asked me to visit him in South Dakota at some point.” Both women were totally confused now and asked “Why does he speak with you but no-one else at this convention, are you related to him?” Victoria answered with “Oh really, Ehanamani was very friendly to me, maybe because he knew my fathers too.” Victoria then walked away because at that point, there was nothing else to say.

These were the same females who took an aura image of Victoria a few days earlier, which also showed lots of energy beings around her. The misty facial appearance in front of Victoria's is Gatheon, one of the elder beings of the Ancients. The family also said that for every energy appearance that showed itself around the top of Victoria's head, there were thousands standing behind.

Ehanamani left Victoria with a personalized message in a book he gave her to read that day, with a reminder to visit him in South Dakota. He also signed another book she purchased about Crazy Horse with a signature and date. Both Mike and Victoria were pleasantly surprised about this interaction; as The Windfathers had been very quiet with one brief comment, about there being something waiting for us in the building.

Charles is a member of our spirit-being family who also explains some of the ancient tribal languages on behalf of The Windfather Chieftains. He speaks about the beginnings and creation of this realm concerning the great forge machines, and if you have never heard about this before, this conversation is very interesting. Other members of our family also speak about these things, but we will let you decide if you want to hear the conversation.

Charles has been studying with The Windfathers for many years who admire his commitment into learning their wisdom and was recently given a great gift of respect by The Windfathers. Charles became a Chieftain so he can now sit around the council fire.

Please listen with an open mind when you hear these recordings, because what you will hear are dimensional beings who channel and speak through one man's voice, Michael. These beings try and change their vocal inclinations and the way in which they present themselves, but ultimately, they are what humanity perceives as energy-beings-spirits from the 4th dimension and beyond.

The Great Ancestral Being

The Aboriginal people of Australia were the oldest and first inhabitants of the land of my birth; however, I knew virtually nothing about the first people when I was going to school. The ancient culture concerning the Aboriginal people wasn't taught in school back then, so most of the time, Aussie kids never knew who really discovered Australia. I have since come to realize that Australian history isn't exactly correct either, and just like most other textbooks in schools today, they could also use a good dose of truth added back into them.

The Windfathers comprise a large group of tribal chiefs and elders from different countries, timelines, and teachings across this realm. Therefore, when they speak, it is a voice in unison – voices of knowledge who speak about some of the ancient stories and their interaction with the Star People.

Eta-Daruu is an Aboriginal spirit-being who once communed with silver-colored and dark-skinned gods when they came to see his tribe. Once a year, some tribes would meet and speak to their star families. He explains that the tribe would travel long distances to communicate in the sacred places of their ancestors. The Northern Territory has many sacred places, but there was one place in particular, the tribes would gather and wait for their star family to arrive, now known as Pine Gap.

"Pine Gap is a joint Australian-United States satellite communications and signals intelligence surveillance base." https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Pine_Gap

Eta-Daruu carries a Tjurunga (sacred wooden object) with him, and his face is pale from ash, with colorful painted marks on his skin. He sings and dances in ancient ways, taught by forefathers. He believes as do many other Aboriginal people, The Great Spirit is believed to have lived on Earth before rising to the sky.

The "Creation Being" or "Ancestral Being" is believed to return to Earth during the Bora, which are initiation ceremonies, and also speaks through all forms of nature, including storms, wind and thunder, trees and fauna, birds, animals, and fish.

The Aboriginal Dreamtime, is about 40,000 years old with a complex spiritual culture based in deep knowledge and understanding of the environment and all energies connected to the natural world. All Aboriginal tribes have unique stories about deities and gods, which are still deeply embedded in their culture.

If you want to feel some beautiful and amazing energy, in which the Aboriginal people of Australia participated, watch the spiritual cleansing ritual bought in the Sydney 2000 Olympic Games. You will FEEL all that good energy yourself, especially if you allow it to flow into your soul like a reed in the wind. After all, are we not all connected in one way or another?

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qsLLzL27hYA&t=4760s>

The opening ceremony was specifically created to impart good energy and divine blessings, and bring about cleansing to make way for positive thoughts and a new way of living. Our Divine Father wanted humanity to come together, as shown in this ceremony. We were asked to include the Sydney 2000 opening ceremony in this book because this ceremony represents the way our Divine father wants humanity to live with. . . no war no bloodshed and no hatred, but rather living together under sacred laws in peace and harmony.

The Great Creation Being was represented during the cleansing ceremony of the Sydney 2000 opening ceremony Olympic games. This being had no mouth so as not to cast judgement upon the land or its children. That pretty much sounds like the Divine Father we know and love in this family.

The amazing energy humans put together in this opening ceremony frightened those in control of this realm. They had to stop it quickly; hence, in 2001, twin towers were bought down. My family shared this knowledge with me, as they said the RIGHT Golden Age was upon us in 2000 but was halted again in 2001.

Section 4

The Middle Pathway

For many years, a scripture in the Bible troubled me because I believed it conveyed a much deeper meaning than the recorded message. It seemed to have a dimensional aspect that I needed to explore, and eventually I believe I found the answers too.

Matthew 7:13-14 (NASB) states: “Enter through the narrow gate; for the gate is wide and the way is broad that leads to destruction, and there are many who enter through it. For the gate is small and the way is narrow that leads to life, and few find it.”

The parable about walking on the broad road versus the narrow path suggests that many people believe they are already following the narrow path simply because religion tells them so. However, attending church doesn't automatically place someone in the "saved" category either.

The connection to the Divine Father of the Multiverse must come from within each of us. A lot of this is about opening up our minds and hearts more. So, unless we have looked inward first and performed the necessary work on ourselves or challenged the established views on divine understanding, how can we be sure, we are really on the narrow path?

Just because someone speaks about scripture at the Sunday church sermon in a “Godly” way, doesn't mean those people are walking the narrow or middle path.

The narrow gate mentioned in the Bible is a pathway that most people will never take because it often requires a belief that's challenging to accept. Usually, those who speak differently about their connection to the Divine Father, are often seen as charlatans or mentally unbalanced because this is the way religion and society have encouraged others to believe. Therefore most people will never know the truth because they will fall into one of three categories of a being's spiritual understanding.

As the Nag Hammadi Scriptures mention, there are three different types of spiritual personalities upon this matrix, however, most will fall into the 3rd category of understanding. To break free of this third category a person must allow themselves to have a teachable spirit about this realm and its inverted machinations. In other words, having an open mind is the only way this new understanding about you and connecting to all that is, can come into existence.

"Hylics" refers to beings made of flesh and material who value things like flashy cars, big homes and money above all else. According to gnostic teachings, the material world is ultimately flawed, and this existence can be seen as a three-dimensional prison.

While here on this realm our job is to figure out what's really important in the grand scheme of all things universal. The only way to escape this prison is through knowledge and a deeper understanding of the dimensional realities. This is a better path for the divine spark within us to awaken and grow.

Once the divine spark begins to shine, you will eventually recognize the presence of the Divine Father connecting with us to help us gain amazing insights into our third dimensional reality and all that is connected.

Therefore, the notion that the Divine Father is unattainable to us, as religious indoctrination would have us believe, cannot be true, especially if Father has already placed the divine spark within us, as the book of Revelation also indicates.

All we need to do, is connect with the Divine Father directly, rather than through any secondary paths. These secondary paths can be misleading and are part of the "broad road" mentioned in Matthew. You only need your divine spark to connect with the ultimate divinity—our ancient and wise Father—so there is no need for a go-between in this process.

At some point in our lives, most people embark on a spiritual journey, and often, we may stumble and scrape our knees along the way. True spirituality can be challenging to practice, but it's through these tough lessons in life, where we learn and grow. It's what shapes us; therefore, having an elevated consciousness, usually comes with its own set of challenges.

However, part of life's journey involves us acquiring life skills (good and bad), opening ourselves up to new spiritual pathways, and connecting with the ultimate wisdom, our Divine Father of the Multiverse.

The Seven Churches of Revelation

Revelation 1:4 NIV states: "To the seven churches in the province of Asia, grace and peace to you from him who is, and who was, and who is to come, and from the seven spirits before his throne."

During Jesus' time, the predominant faiths in Asia were Buddhism and Hinduism. However, John's letters also included knowledge that wasn't explicitly mentioned in the Bible. There is a significant gap in the biblical narrative between Jesus' childhood and young adulthood when he travels extensively.

So, what was Jesus doing during the period between boyhood and young manhood? Did he travel to Asia and study with the Buddhists? Did Jesus learn from a temple for a time, in order to understand his deeper connection to the Divine?

John may have been aware of the teachings of Siddhartha Gautama, known as the Buddha, as he began teaching in the 6th century BCE, which was long before Christ's time. Therefore, if the Buddha was teaching introspection and self-discovery before Christ was born, why weren't Buddha's teachings incorporated into the Bible or were they, because it seems to us, some of the Buddhist teachings may have been subtly woven into Jesus' biblical teachings.

This raises an interesting question: Did John have insight into the origins of Buddhism and other teachings, such as Hinduism? According to the bible, Jesus wrote John a letter describing his engagement with the seven churches in Asia, so were these Buddhist Temples as mentioned in the letter to John in Revelations?

It appears to us, the Divine Father may have had more than one son conveying profound knowledge to this realm like Buddha. What are your thoughts on this?

What is Mahabharata?

"The one who has conquered his mind is free from all sorrows and fears" – Krishna

Just as many people were raised to believe only what certain spiritual books said, we seem to have forgotten that ancient texts carved into walls told us of their way of life or spiritual understanding long before we came into existence. Ancient tribes left us clues about how they lived, how they worshipped and how they created life, long before the bible was delivered to the public in 1611.

- Some of the oldest societies got it wrong, but only the Bible is right?
- Why were other ancient texts like the book of Enoch left out of the bible?
- Why was spiritual information missing or unavailable to the public for centuries?
- Why were the Gnostic texts shunned and called heresy by the Orthodox church?
- Who would do such a thing, unless ignorance was the real plan to control humanity?

Therefore, in all reality, can we trust all the information written into the Bible, considering certain books were never added or purposely omitted? The Nag Hammadi speak openly about such things in their scriptures and also about the archons who would make sure the missing information never showed up. I encourage everyone to get a copy of the Nag Hammadi and begin reading.

Why would an all-loving God have spiritual information burned and destroyed, unless darker beings felt threatened by the information?

Book burnings are always a good sign someone or something doesn't want YOU to know information that may actually threaten their existence, not yours. It doesn't make any sense to me, for beings, who researched and wrote parts of the Nag Hammadi Scriptures to be imprisoned for being apostates, unless their research questioned certain biblical scriptures and the historical authenticity of the storyline.

What if the church felt threatened and therefore had to classify the Nag Hammadi and those who wrote it as heresy?

What if the information you have been given all these generations is false and the God of the Bible you know, is not the same as the Divine Father of the Multiverse? After all the original KJV bible did have a Goats head image on the original inside cover and goats are usually related to Baphomet worship in this day and age.

"Mahabharata is one of two Sanskrit epic poems of ancient India (the other being Ramayana). Mahabharata is an important source of information on the development of Hinduism between 400 BCE and 200 CE and is regarded by Hindus as both a text about dharma (Hindu moral law) and history. Source: <https://www.britannica.com/topic/Mahabharata>.

"Sanskrit is an ancient Indo-Aryan language considered the classical language of India and Hinduism. It encompasses classical Sanskrit as well as older Vedic texts and various later modifications." Source: <https://www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/Sanskrit>.

You may not have considered what I am about to say here before, but please think with an open mind because you really need to.

Siddhartha Gautama, also known as the Buddha, began teaching in the 6th century BCE. Both Mahabharata and Buddha's teachings predate Jesus' birth. Therefore, is it reasonable to consider that John may have been conversing with audiences in Asia who were already familiar with Hindu and Buddhist teachings?

After all, many Buddhist teachings are about going within and healing ourselves, just as Jesus taught early Christian congregations to love one another and practice the fruitage of the spirit.

Did Jesus Learn Buddhist Teachings?

We believe it's unlikely that the apostle John was communicating exclusively with Christian churches, especially considering the widespread influence of Buddhist teachings in Asia at that time. Buddhism and Hinduism were the predominant spiritual traditions, particularly in regions we now know as Tibet and India. Many individuals were already engaged in introspective spiritual practices during Jesus' lifetime, leading us to ponder the possibility that Jesus may have been exposed to Buddhist teachings.

We have encountered arguments against this idea, suggesting that Jesus would have focused on the Jewish teachings he received as a child from the synagogue. However, this perspective leaves a significant gap in the biblical narrative, as there is a notable absence of information regarding Jesus' life between his childhood and the beginning of his ministry.

Haven't you ever questioned what else might be out there, especially if the teachings you received as a child no longer resonate with you as an adult? If your intuition has been signaling to you for years, asking, "Something feels off here," have you taken the time to listen to that feeling? What if Jesus harbored similar questions and traveled to Asia in search of answers?

In our family, we have concluded that what we were taught from the Bible left little room for personal exploration to discover our true divine selves. Therefore, who's to say that Jesus didn't also feel this way and chose to incorporate other teachings into his life, to connect with our Divine Father? This type of spiritual journey makes more sense than the incomplete narrative about Jesus' life, and what really happened to him before he began his ministry around the age of thirty years old.

Luke 2:40-42 NIV says "And the child grew and became strong; he was filled with wisdom, and the grace of God was on him." Jesus was approximately 12 years old in the mention of this scripture – just as puberty kicked in. How many of us have raised teenagers?

Didn't you find the most intelligent child you personally raised, was also the one who wanted to explore all kinds of things like space or technology? The above scripture says "he was filled with wisdom, "well, don't Buddhist also seek out wise children before and after they are born? The Dalia Lama is their representation of a fleshly holy man, is he not?

So, could it actually be possible, the apostle John was in dialogue with Buddhist monks who understood the seven chakra points in the body and part of that wisdom Jesus gained, came from the monks in the Buddhist temples? If you allow yourself to see these possibilities with an open mind, the multiple dimensional interpretations of Revelation 1:4 can be understood better.

Revelations 1:4 NIV "John, To the seven churches in the province of Asia: Grace and peace to you from him who is, and who was, and who is to come, and from the seven spirits before his throne."

Johns Letter and 'Christian' Churches?

So, did Jesus spend some time in Asia learning from the seven temples (churches) he spoke about in his letter to John in Revelation? The main point of this scripture in Revelation, it does not specify the religious beliefs of the churches, but we do know from the Johns letter: The Bible mentions seven churches in Asia. Jesus was the source of this letter, which was communicated through an angel to John.

"The seven churches" (Revelation 1:4). I believe the term "church" aligns with a Christian understanding, but considering the existing teachings of Buddha at that time, might the word "church" also refer to seven temples from within our bodies?

There were three other scholars Louis Jacolliot, Nicolas Notovich, and Levi H. Dowling who also asked the same questions about Jesus travelling to places like Tibet or India, and learning about Buddhism. Of course, gatekeepers in this realm immediately shut down those thoughts, because they do not want you to learn anything other than what they teach you. Many who have scoffed at this suggestion will immediately say that is impossible. But is it really?

Jesus' personality sounded more like he wanted to learn everything he could – so why wouldn't he be curious about another point of view too? Doesn't listening and learning also make us wise beings? Isn't knowledge about other cultures and beliefs, how we gain wisdom?

Interestingly, the seven churches referenced in the Bible appear to align with spiritual centers along the spinal column, known as chakras. Buddhist monks are usually attuned to their higher self and understand the connection to dimensional energy, AKA photon light energy.

- Have you ever noticed that the belief in Nirvana closely resembles the concept of heaven and life after death mentioned in the Bible? They certainly seem similar, don't they?
- Do you believe your soul continues after death or do you believe there is other things we should know about too?
- Are you afraid to pass away upon this 3D realm known as Earth?
- Do you believe in reincarnation?
- If we can ask these questions of ourselves regarding our identity, then don't you think Jesus might have asked similar questions and embarked on a journey of self-exploration as well?

In the 1990s and the 2000s, Bill Donahue taught some of these parables in the Bible. He believed that the seven churches were not as they appeared in the text, suggesting that they represented the chakra centers in the body. His insights were thought-provoking and helped illuminate the dimensional aspects of the Bible, a perspective that many might not have considered before. Revelation Three, speaks about the 7's Chakras, Seals, Churches with Bill Donahue <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qeNisqXfSSw&t=559s>

Revelations 3:1, NIV says “To the angel of the church in Sardis write: These are the words of him (Jesus?) who holds the seven spirits of God (chakra’s) and the seven stars. I know your deeds; you have a reputation of being alive, but you are dead (we are light energy beings, in flesh form?).

If you look at some of these scriptures and think upon their real meanings, and the era, it’s clear Revelations can be interpreted in many different ways. If you ask the Divine Father for clarification upon these ancient texts before beginning your study – he will also help you to see the multi-dimensional aspect of these writings.

Revelation 22:17, NIV says “Let the one who is thirsty come; and let the one who wishes take the free gift of the water of life". Water of Life or in other words, Eternal life – but you still have to go within to find the water source and turn on the faucet.

In Buddhism, Nirvana is the highest state of enlightenment and perfect peace, which is the goal of most beings. Nirvana is also about freeing our minds from suffering and finding a way out of the continual cycle of rebirth. This sounds similar to the broad and narrow road analogy in the Bible about which way to walk. Therefore similar references of enlightenment, can be seen from the opposite sides of the spectrum.

John 3:11 – 15 NIV says this “Very truly I tell you, we speak of what we know, and we testify to what we have seen, but still, you people do not accept our testimony. I have spoken to you of earthly things and you do not believe; how then will you believe if I speak of heavenly things? No one has ever gone into heaven except the one who came from heaven—the Son of Man. Just as Moses lifted up the snake in the wilderness, so the Son of Man must be lifted up, that everyone who believes may have eternal life in him.”

So, in order to know ourselves as one of the sons of man, then we must also know where we came from in the heavens, as the scripture in John says? “No one has ever gone into heaven except the one who came from heaven.” In other words, know thyself and where you came from because this scripture is not just about Jesus but all of us who are “sons of man.”

To be lifted up, we must first know ourselves. The Son of Man must be lifted up, that everyone who believes may have eternal life in him (Father).” It also seems to me that Jesus was trying to get people to connect to Father through their internal knowledge (lifting up) with understanding first, just as Buddhists were taught to do from Buddha.

Therefore, if we apply Buddhist teachings to the above scriptures from John, going within and walking a narrow (or middle path) just makes sense. Combining ancient teachings together with biblical parables, allows us to find our higher self, while still walking the narrow path, spoken of in Matthew 7:13-14.

It seems to us, that Buddha and Jesus were given the same type of instruction, and why millions of beings are naturally drawn to these teachings. We believe the letter John wrote was parable about the seven Chakra's that ran down the spine and the spiritual seals within our own bodies.

It also makes sense, as your wisdom increases, the seven Chakra points in your body are also activated to work together for increased communication and understanding. This is how we connect to the Divine Father energy, and Buddha seemed to understand this process, as did Jesus. Other scholars seemed to believe this was the correct path for us to take as well, and if you really allow yourself to think about it, so will you.

We believe the connection to the churches "To the seven churches in the province of Asia, was about YOU. Buddhism and Hinduism were the main teachings in Asia, around the time of Jesus and John ministry, therefore, the apostles must have known about Buddhist teachings and John may also have spoken to Buddhist Monks about Jesus intellectual and spiritual capacity during this time, which also makes sense to us.

You Never Needed Any Other Teacher But You

Humanity never needed anyone else to tell us how to communicate with the Divine Father because it is already hidden within our DNA; therefore, anyone can remember how, if they really want to.

YOU also do not need other beings to explain how to connect to the Divine Father of the Multiverse because YOU have a pineal gland inside your forehead, and it is a natural communication device for you to plug into. Therefore, the parables in the Bible about finding the narrow road, point strongly toward healing and knowing yourself first.

So, in order to know ourselves as one of the sons of man, then we must also know where we came from in the heavens, as the scripture in John says? "No one has ever gone into heaven except the one who came from heaven." After reading the bible for many years as a child and into adulthood, it seems more than likely that Buddha and Jesus were given the same type of instruction, and why millions of beings are still naturally drawn to these teachings, to this day.

So how can millions of people just believe in 'one saviour from God' when history shows us, there have been quite a few who came from the heavens, who also lit the way for us to seek knowledge and understanding?

We also believe the letter John wrote was parable about the seven chakra's that ran down the spine and the spiritual seals within our bodies to awaken. It makes sense that, as your wisdom increases, the seven chakra points in your body are also activated. This is how we connect to the Divine Father, and Buddha seemed to understand this process, as did Jesus. Other learned beings upon this matrix, seemed to believe this was correct too and if you really think about it, so will you.

The apostles must have known about Buddhist teachings and similar examples in teaching, seem to reference those interesting points too.

Humanity never needed anyone else to tell us how to communicate with the Divine Father because it is already hidden within our DNA; therefore, anyone can remember how, if they really want to. YOU also do not need other beings to explain how to connect to the Divine Father of the Multiverse because YOU have a Pineal Gland inside your forehead, and it is a natural communication device for you to plug into.

Therefore, the parables in the Bible about the narrow road – connecting to the seven chakras and going within– are all up to you and how much knowledge you want to have. Remember that the broad road is filled with light and darkness, all wrapped up into one. Broad roads will always teach you their way and beliefs, while Father is still kept in the background because that's the gig and why most beings on this matrix will blindly follow those family based religious teachings.

The narrow pathway is filled with obstacles, and why going within ourselves will help us navigate the road ahead. It's harder to walk the narrow path because it requires us to look within and forgiveness plays a huge role in this journey too. Forgiveness comes from within and toward others first, then forgiveness is given back to you, so healing also occurs within us. It is a circle that goes around and then returns again, which keeps all of us connected. Kindness and love, when given freely, increase positive flows in your direction. What you think about others or cast dispersions upon them will ultimately reflect upon you at some point, because energy never dies.

Galatians 5: 13 to 17 (NIV): "You, my brothers and sisters, were called to be free. But do not use your freedom to indulge the flesh; rather, serve one another humbly in love. For the entire law is fulfilled in keeping this one command: "Love your neighbor as yourself." If you bite and devour each other, watch out or you will be destroyed by each other. So, I say, walk by the Spirit, and you will not gratify the desires of the flesh. For the flesh desires what is contrary to the Spirit, and the Spirit what is contrary to the flesh. They are in conflict with each other, so that you are not to do whatever you want."

Because we are dualled natured as the bible speaks of in Galatians, we occasionally have trouble maintaining our dark-light aspect. The Divine Father understands your heart condition and intent, which makes going within and walking the Middle Path easier.

Section 5

Bubble Myself - What Energy?

The type of energy we put out every day toward other people is the type of energy we can expect to receive back from them. The words you speak carry power even if you have no idea of what I am speaking. Energy and human emotions also work very well together be it positive or negative, and so far, many are choosing to fight against each other, rather than standing together against a corrupt system that's totally indoctrinated society.

The indoctrination upon this realm, is a perfect reason why bubbling your energy every day is a sound spiritual defense mechanism to practice. It helps us to use visualization techniques along with teaching us strength and endurance. Learning to say NO to negative energy is just a good practice, and teaching your children how to protect themselves too, is even better.

 Construct building and why it matters to our energy. How to make a construct and invite the Divine Creator. Stephen. A. Jones explains in a conversation with Victoria.

Link: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8HsOPMq9ItY>

The act of visualizing a protective bubble around everyone in your home is easy to do because even though your human eye cannot always see other energy, sometimes your child can. Teach them to use their imagination as they bubble themselves in positive energy. Make it a game for them, as I know I could see energy at 3 years old, so I am pretty sure most other children can too.

Encourage your children to see a big bubble around them, or something similar like a favorite super hero protective barrier, around their body. Now, see yourself encased in a bubble of powerful strong energy, which is virtually impossible to break too.

Practicing Mindfulness in the Matrix

Ephesians 6:13 (NIV) "Therefore put on the full armor of God, so that when the day of evil comes, you may be able to stand your ground, and after you have done everything, to stand."

Morpheus said in the matrix movie of 1999 that human energy is like a battery. Near the beginning of the movie, there is a scene when Morpheus said the following to Neo: "The Human Body generates more bioelectricity than a 120-volt battery."

Humans are natural energy generators that connect the earth and other energy sources. This is because everything is energy; positive or negative, energy is always there. The perfect example of this, sometimes static energy can build up and cause us shocks from walking on carpet while wearing our shoes. You don't actually see the static energy but we can experience the aftermath in the form of a prickly sensation or painful shock.

Therefore, if energy never dies, and it just transforms into other forms, we should be more conscious of how we project our emotions onto others who may perceive them differently. This is precisely why we need to learn to control our thoughts and emotions, so we can send out more positive flows of energy that will naturally intensify when we are around other people acting the same way.

The same rule applies to negative energy; people unknowingly contribute this energy more than they should in many different ways each and every day. When we constantly think and feel negative thoughts, other people also begin to pick up on that energy, and why sometimes you may see them distance themselves for a while. It is difficult to be around someone who is always gloomy, especially when others are trying to raise their joy level.

We understand about depression and anxiety but even that is something we each can manage by practicing things like mindfulness. Learning simple breathing techniques, walking and sitting out in the sun, and changing the way we view ourselves can help to improve our mental health outlook as mindfulness is not about being in conflict with other people but rather about discovery and positive change that comes from within.

Mindfulness also teaches us to be conscious of the thoughts and feelings of other people; therefore, if you are depressed and sad, do not put that kind of negativity on others, especially when you know it may hurt them.

We shouldn't expect other people to adjust to our behavior first, when, in fact, we may be the very reason why they are no longer communicating. The purpose of growing spiritually is to work out what trigger's bouts of depression in the first place, then quickly stopping ourselves when we feel negative emotions coming forward. Mindfulness comes into play when we become more conscious of these negative reactions.

It is through having a good emotional balance and understanding, of what we speak into fruition and act upon, should always be controlled in a calm peaceful manner. Therefore, the kind of energy we put out upon others, is the same kind of energy we can expect to come back to us in some form, too.

What Happened to Humanity?

Did you ever watch the original Matrix movie?

Remember that scene where Neo wakes up to see sleeping humans in pods with tubes attached to them? That's what happened to humanity. Dark A.I took over our lives and turned us into a workable battery. If you believe any of these types of movies are just fantasy, Ok we understand, maybe this is where your information ends. We find it remarkable that people still do not see any type of connection especially when you can find Government websites that are aware such technology.

"The U.S. military has a fleet of remotely piloted vehicles that operate worldwide and oceanographers have been using remotely piloted submersibles for years."

Source: <https://www.defense.gov/News/News-Stories/Article/Article/927792/dod-studies-terminator-weapons-conundrum-selva-says/>

Haven't you noticed all the orbs and unusual drones flying around in the sky lately? I wonder what that's all about? Obviously, they have equipment you may not have seen yet so with this knowledge in mind, isn't it just possible they also know about Terminator technology as well?

In the Matrix movie, Morpheus has to show Neo what happened to humanity on order to help him wake up. When Neo sees the end result of our society on an old television screen, it's pretty obvious, something dark happened to society and we were taken over by machines. Neo can't handle the truth and begins to feel sick and asks to be let out of the simulation.

Unfortunately, this scenario will become real at some point, more than most people will allow themselves to believe. Everything you needed to hear when the movie was released in March 1999 was a foretelling of the future.

"When a well-packaged web of lies has been sold gradually to the masses over generations, the truth will seem utterly preposterous and its speaker a raving lunatic." -Dresden James

Sing a Song

Did you ever notice how movies or songs we listen to present turmoil, sadness, and death? Take any movie you can think about at this moment and then take a look at the movie. It seems to us, that modern action-packed movies show a lot of screaming at each other, while other people are blown up.

So, I have to ask, do you really believe the Divine Father of the Multiverse wants YOU to learn how to behave this way? What is the REAL PURPOSE of showing us these movies, if not to indoctrinate? 100% designed to keep you ignorant of what was really taking place in this matrix and to keep you at the lowest energy possible. When we are at our lowest energy, you emit a signal to other dimensional entities that lunch is ready. Have you ever seen how a fish moves in the water before it passes? Yes, we look like that for many of these dimensional beings, especially when we behave negatively.

The original frequency across this matrix was 432 Hz, which changed to 440 Hz in 1955. Also around this time, television came into everyone's living room between the 1950s and the 1960s, by the millions. Just another tool to brainwash us and keep us fat, happy and dumb.

Have you ever read the words of Princes Song 1999? I really encourage you to take a look because, from what the song is about, it seems there may have been some kind of timeline distortion that occurred between 2000 and 2001 when the twin towers came down.

Or, how about all those questionable songs we sung, but never really looked at the meaning behind the words? Singing some of these songs also has an intention and energy projection inside of them. Did you ever consider that you might actually participate in some form of ritual by singing all those words? Many of the words in songs are filled with instructions on how to practice the occult, cheating on your partner, feeling depressed and alone.

Every time you sing one those big hit songs, unconsciously the singing is helping to propagate the spell casting behind it. Whether you believe this or not is entirely up you, but the darker energies that help create this existence are counting on your ignorance and disbelief. Instead we tend to call the person who is awakening our mind to this fact, a crackpot or crazy, which is what someone who thinks like a Hylic, would encourage.

Consciously or unconsciously, we are helping to contribute to our own downfall by not recognising or even entertaining the possibility that the words we sing from certain songs or the movies we watch, may actually be helping us stay at a lower vibrational energy level. Did you ever take the time to read the words of the Eagles- Hotel California? Tell us again how words are harmless. <https://www.azlyrics.com/lyrics/eagles/hotelcalifornia.html> Or explain the words about a ritual that takes place in the song, but there's no harm in singing that song, right?

Movies and songs that involve emotional drama and negative behavior, are designed to keep you at the lowest vibrational level possible because fear creates energy around your body, therefore darker energies can see you and they will feed off the energy you are producing.

Always remember this, the light part of your DNA wants you to learn about the words you speak and how it affects your energy. The dark fleshly part of us says, it's just a song. The scripture in Galatians 5: 13-17 is indeed truthful then, especially the part about the flesh being at war with the spirit, so its good to keep to things in mind during our daily lives.

We have been saying for many years that there is no such thing as a coincidence – everything is planned and executed perfectly by powerful, intelligent and ancient beings that we cannot see with our 3D eyes. The Nag Hammadi scriptures call them Archons and for a very good reason too. In ancient Greece, the term "archon" referred to a chief magistrate or ruler. However, in Gnosticism, "archons" are malevolent dark beings, who are believed to control the material world and obstruct any form of spiritual enlightenment from happening.

Does this mean the Archons are also capable of having movies and songs created from the entertainment industry, that can control our thoughts and emotions? Are they also designed to distract us from going within and ultimately connecting with the Divine Father?

Only you can answer those questions.

Dimensional Energy-Beings

The dimensional beings who look at us as food absolutely love the darker energies because it reenergizes them so that they can continue their cycle of draining the unsuspecting human. These beings will attach dimensional parasites to your 3D body, so when the dinner bell rings next time (sad, depressed, or angry mess), they come back and harvest that energy.

Happiness, love, and peace keep these entities away because as your vibrational energy changes into a positive force; therefore, your energy, is not as appealing to feed upon for these beings.

This world was designed to be a place of peace and beauty, but there are other dimensional beings who also exist on Earth that your physical 3D eyes cannot see. Just because you cannot see or feel them does not make what I am saying here any less truthful. So, if you want to stop being someone's meal ticket, then change the way you think and feel, and begin to learn more about your higher self.

The Nag Hammadi scriptures speak of these ones as Archons and I suggest everyone takes a look at the book because there is some eye-opening information about the Divine Father and his Earthly children in these scriptures as well. The Gnostic Scriptures also speak of three types of humans that are upon this realm today

1. Hylics currently constitute the majority of the population. These people like material wealth and have things handed to them. Many of these beings will do anything for money and take an easy out approach to life, which usually ends in tragedy.
2. Psychics are people who are beginning to become aware of the journey of going within for answers. They have souls but have not yet made a connection to all that is - Father. They understand that there is a link but have not yet determined the going within process.
3. Pneumatics are referred to as the highest form of human. These are those who are connected to the divine and elevate themselves into the realm of knowledge. These people realize that they must go within if they are to gain freedom from a realm filled with inverted untruths. They can escape the enslavement of thought that comes from this world because they now see all the illusions.

This also proves that staying positive in thought and emotion can change almost everything in our lives. . . would you not agree? "What you know you can't explain, but you feel it. You have felt it your entire life that there is something wrong with the world. You don't know what it is, but it's there, like a splinter in your mind, driving you mad." - Morpheus Matrix Movie

Most people do not understand what they are feeling now, but they sense that something is not right, with chaos and strife never ending in this realm. This seems to be convenient and planned. How do we cope with the physical, mental, spiritual, and dimensional changes we see going on? Everything feels warped and unreal, with orbs showing up, never seen before drones everywhere, strange lights in the sky, and the list going on.

Meditation and prayer can help us adjust and become stoic in our approach to the problems that are now arising. Going within is about learning the trigger points that unbalance us, taking control, and then dealing with these issues.

If you feel that some of these suggestions are not for you, then we encourage YOU to begin understanding stoicism. The four main principles of stoicism are wisdom, justice, courage, and moderation. Most of us can at least agree with these values.

Speaking with the Divine Father can also help us balance our emotions by simply verbalizing our concerns to Father. Even though you may not think it will help in the current situation, our Divine Father can hear your concerns when we feel anxious, and why finding a balance in our emotions is the primary goal. Meditation does not have to be 30 mins long to be effective. Currently, most people have concentration issues, therefore, making 10-minute meditation work for us, is very possible. Focus on one issue at a time and ask for guidance in each step.

"People also use the practice of meditation to develop other beneficial habits and feelings, such as a positive mood and outlook, self-discipline, healthy sleep patterns, and even increased pain tolerance."

At this time, many are now aware of the spiritual wars. It is not so much about your physical body all the time, even though your health is important, but rather your understanding of what is taking place around you, along with your ability to maneuver through these difficult situations.

All That Energy

Have you heard of Neutrino Energy waves or Photon Light Energy before?

Neutrino Energy Waves: "An electrically neutral particle that is found in the weak force, nuclear reactions (such as the process in stars) and some particle collisions. The majority of neutrinos found on Earth originate from the Sun, referred to as solar neutrinos."

<https://energywavetheory.com/subatomic-particles/neutrino/>

https://www.researchgate.net/publication/263316565_Neutrino_Magnetic_Moment_CP_Violation_and_Flavor_Oscillations_in_Matter

Photon Light Energy: "Electromagnetic energy comes in packets, or quanta which we now call photons. Thus, light behaves as a wave and a particle depending on the circumstances and the effect being observed. This concept is now known as wave-particle duality."

<https://lco.global/spacebook/light/light-particle/>

<https://www.flowvis.org/Flow%20Vis%20Guide/photons-and-wavelength/>

Crystalline Energy: "Crystalline molecules have a greater capacity to hold light, thereby increasing our physical vessel's ability to maintain higher frequencies of energy and consciousness."

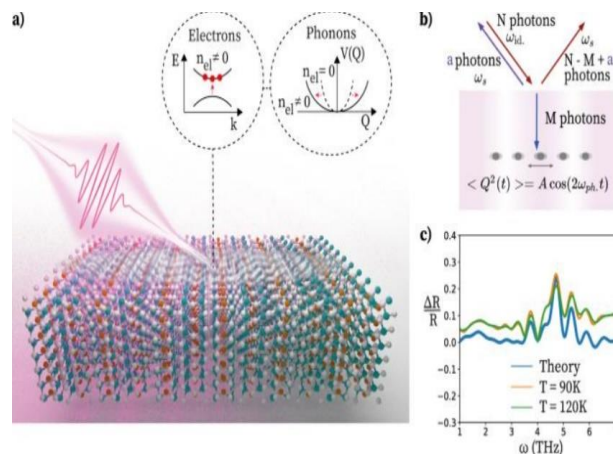

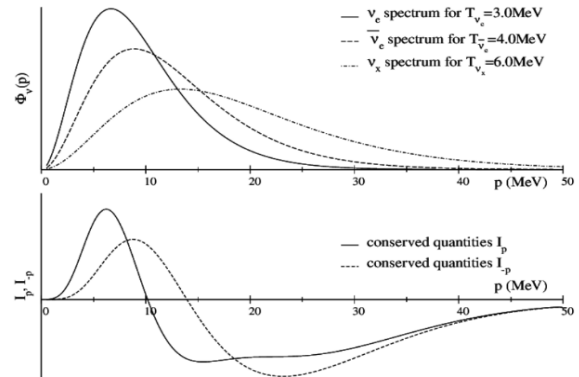

<https://www.cosmicawakening.org/understanding-the-concept-of-crystalline-body/>

Crystalline Communication Technology:

"Crystal radios possessed an almost magical quality, channelling electromagnetic phenomena in the air directly into electricity, without any need for power of their own."

<https://julianoliver.com/projects/crystal-line/> or

* We present different types of energy communication to explain how this works for our family. Many people are unaware of or do not believe in this form of communication. Therefore, providing an explanation of how this energy works, can help to make these interactions appear less fantastical and more educational. Think of it as a science lesson that shows how energy works, an explanation grounded in 3D reality.

The Last Say

The words written throughout this book are intended to encourage you to reflect on who you are and your connection to everything around you. We especially encourage everyone to develop that personal relationship with our Divine Father as we desperately need this kind of love now.

We would like to thank everyone who has reached this point in the book. We understand that some of the concepts we teach, might be confusing right now, but if you apply the wisdom shared throughout, you will eventually grasp the deeper meanings contained within.

Our family has revealed only a small part of who they are because, ultimately, this book was about you and how much you want to grow spiritually. This book is less about the dimensional connections our fleshly family has with other beings and more about the amazing and valuable insights they have shared with us over the years.

Our family also experiences serious moments, and at times, their information may seem unrealistic or too fantastical for most to accept. We understand that some people may not understand and immediately reject this information. We say to you – thank you for taking the time to read – and thank you for your visit.

No matter how much humans want to deny this type of energy exists, and society tells us we are crazy, if talk about it, the truth as our family understands it, we know them to be real and some of them have endured personal trials that most of us would find unacceptable in today's society. Sometimes, our unique family, remind us of the BBC series called "Ghosts," because they also coexist with us in our home. Source: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=5e0nB1mSd9Q>

About The Authors

Michael and Victoria have been writers and content creators for many years, incorporating all kinds of information, such as spirituality, growing food, living simply, and learning about self-sufficiency. For many years, Mike ran a ghost-writing business for clients who wanted books created to promote their products. The couple also ran a monthly online e-publication on growing healthy foods and living sustainably.

In 2008, our family published a book titled Catch Falling Stars. At that time, we had moved from Florida to Colorado, as the family suggested. The high mountain places where you can hear the wind speak, as Grandfather Medicine man says. Our experience with channeling began approximately five years before our move, but we noticed a significant increase in our abilities once we settled in the mountains. Not many distractions with the mountains all around us.

The knowledge we introduced to humanity in Catch Falling Stars is remarkable. We believe it is time to revisit the messages from The Ancients, as much of what they conveyed in 2008 will remain relevant in 2025. Since the book's publication, many other entities have come forward to share their wisdom and insights.

Michael was the primary channel in our family, although Victoria occasionally channels some of the ancient sisterhood. We have lost track of the number of dimensional beings with whom Michael communicated over the years, some of whom were quite unpleasant. No matter how challenging the communication became for him, Michael continued to share our family messages and information with humanity. In 2024, Michael ascended to join Hunter, our youngest son. Michael wants everyone to know that there is no such thing as death; rather, your energy simply transforms from physical form to energy (Photon Light Energy), allowing for continued communication with loved ones. Ryan and Victoria still communicate with Mike and Hunter every single day- it's just done in a dimensional way now.

The loneliness we sometimes feel, especially after we lose a fleshly family member, can be difficult to deal with, but we also want you to know that when the time comes for your ascension, many of you will also have family waiting for you. Love doesn't stop just because you are in a different dimension from your family. They still love you, with many waiting to see us again.

Wesdoo Michael, Victoria and The Family.

Recommended Reading For Further Studies

We have received many e-mails from people who want to know which books we would recommend for further education. Personally, we feel, there are so many interesting books to read, that most of your learning skills will come down to what resonates with you and learning about your higher self.

Over time you will come to discover what feels right and what seems that there needs to be more investigating on your behalf. Therefore, we will not endorse any particular website or book, other than the ones we have already mentioned throughout this book.

Taking knowledge in small snippets, is highly recommended at first, rather than drowning in overload. If you don't understand something, put the reading down and chill out for a while. Mull over the information for a few days, especially if you need clarification. Talk to Father and ask for wisdom and understanding; now read the pages again... slowly.

The meaning may sound different now because you are learning spiritual and dimensional things that you had not previously noticed before. As you make these discoveries, don't forget to include Father. Imagine him looking over your shoulder with a smile on his face, acknowledging your progress. Use your imagination, after all you are one of his children too. Wesdoo.
